John D Strides Through the West

By RON COLLISTER

Colonist Ottawa Bureau

MEDICINE HAT — Out where the west commences, every day is like the song for Tory leader John Diefenbaker. Seldom is heard a discouraging word.

Big John, in a ten-gallon Stetson, is in the big country figuring to lasso the big prize, that election on Nov. 8. He reached here beaming after a folksy, spectacular whistle-stopping across the prairies, with large crowds mobbing him at nearly every stop.

SOMEONE WILL VOTE — These are the people who don't see John Diefenbaker as a political leader. It's a man-to-man.

At Gull Lake, Sask., he was asked to go and shake the hand of a man in a parked car.

This man told him that he was very ill and might not be around when election day comes.

"But there are another fourteen votes in my family and they're all going to be cast for you."

THUNDERING ACROSS — The crowds began to build up as the leader crossed into the Saskatchewan constituency of Swift Current-Maple Creek, held by Tory Jack McIntosh in the last Parliament.

At Morse, 400 people turned out to support the local band that greeted him with a waveling rendition of The Thunderer.

BEATING THE DRUM — Newsmen jumped off the train to give their dispatches to the station telegraphist.

His office was empty. "Where was he? They asked. "He's playing the drums," said an RCMP officer. Every one was in the welcome act.

TEARS IN EYES — As the train moved out, the band struck up God Be With You Until We Meet Again. And there were those who swear that there were tears in John Diefenbaker's eyes.

At Herbert, there were 250 people and at Swift Current, 500.

CHANGE OF TUNE — Here, Mr. Diefenbaker was greeted by the non-partisan ladies choir that went to Saskatoon last fall to welcome the prime minister with Hello Lester and now turned out to greet his rival.

No, they couldn't sing, O Johnny, because they didn't know the words.

The 21 blue-gowned ladies.

HONOLULU (AP) — Two 18-

year-old U.S. Navy sailors were charged Tuesday with terrorizing 12 airliner passengers and a stewardess with hunting knives.

The FBI said the two boarded an Aloha Airlines plane Monday at Kaunakakai, Molokai, Hawaii, and held the stewardess at knifepoint until they were subdued by air line employees with a shotgun and flare gun.

CONCEALED WEAPON — Lawrence D. Heiler of White Earth, Minn., and Richard K. Boyd of Watonga, Okla., were charged with carrying a concealed and dangerous weapon aboard a plane.

They were absent without leave from their ship, the George Eastman, at Pearl Harbor.

Party Wins Nigeria Poll

LAGOS, Nigeria (UPI) — The ruling Nigerian National Democratic Party Tuesday won the regional parliamentary election in tense West Nigeria.

With 33 seats still to be declared, the NNPP had won 51 seats in the 94 seat parliament.

KUALA LUMPUR (AP) — The Indonesian Communist party's chief, D. N. Aidit, has escaped a military dragnet and fled by submarine to China, a Hong Kong newspaper said Tuesday.

The report of Aidit's flight came as Radio Jakarta announced capture of the front man of the abortive Sept. 30 movement in Indonesia, Lt.-Col. Untung. Untung was a battalion commander in President Sukarno's palace guard.

CLOSE TO BOSS — Aidit, 43, is a brilliant executive who, as the leader of a party claiming 3,000,000 members, has been close to Sukarno for the last six or seven years. He vanished when the army, a counter-balance on the Conservative side, crushed Untung's leftist coup.

The anti-Communist Hong Kong newspaper Tin Yat Po quoted reliable sources as saying Aidit escaped via the fishing port of Tuban, on the north Java coast 300 miles east of the Indonesian capital of Jakarta.

SUBMARINE — A Chinese submarine picked him up for the voyage to the China mainland, Tin Yat Po said. The Indonesian party, once pro-Moscow, has swung gradually into Peking's orbit in the last four or five years.

The newspaper said "Chinese submarines have, in the past, secretly unloaded munitions for the Indonesian Communists at Tuban."

AT ODDS — One phase of its story, however, was at odds with Radio Jakarta's announcement of Untung's capture. It said Untung got away on the sub with Aidit.

The army-controlled Jakarta station said troops hunting rebel remnants and their Communist supporters seized the military ringleader at Brebes, in the Tegal sector 180 miles east of Jakarta.

U.S. Troops Hit Hard By Viet Cong

AN KHE, South Viet Nam (Reuters) — American units came under a fierce counter attack by Viet Cong guerrillas Tuesday and suffered an undetermined number of casualties after U.S. officials said two North Vietnamese battalions apparently slipped out of a trap.

The Viet Cong forces, estimated at more than company strength, attacked American troops holding positions at the northern tip of a valley enclosed by thousands of U.S. and South Vietnamese government troops for three days.

A U.S. military spokesman said a battalion of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division was "heavily engaged" by the Viet Cong for five hours.

He said two air strikes and an artillery barrage were called in to relieve the U.S. troops, who suffered an undetermined number of casualties.

ATTACK ON HILL — The Viet Cong assaulted American positions on a jungle-clad hill at the head of Su La Tash Valley, some 200 miles northeast of Saigon.

BATTALION ESCAPED — Earlier Tuesday, military officials reported two battalions of North Vietnamese regular troops escaped from a trap set by a large force of American and South Vietnamese units.

The fighting appeared over when the latest action flared.

Castro Fetes Crews

MIAMI (UPI) — An American captain who sailed his boat to Cuba to pick up a load of refugees, reported Tuesday that Cuban officials fed his crew Russian steaks, gave them gas and made it apparent that "anybody who wants to leave the island can go."

The report came from Capt. Jack Zatz of Miami, skipper of the 44-foot vessel Shark V.

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI) — Refugees from the Fidel Castro regime began streaming out of Cuba Tuesday in a rag-tag shuttle of small boats across the stormy Florida Straits.

The Coast Guard cutter Darby arrived here shortly before 8 p.m., carrying 33 refugees picked up from three small boats. A 40-foot patrol boat arrived about two hours later escorting the three small boats with eight more Cubans aboard.

Two more cutters were due during the night, the Coast Guard said, carrying 72 more new exiles.

Russian Spacemen 'Run' Out of Town

BERLIN (AP) — Soviet Cosmonauts Pavel Belyayev and Alexei Leonov, the first man to walk in space, roared out of West Berlin under police escort Tuesday night after demonstrators splattered their big, black limousine with fiery-red paint.

The cosmonauts changed to a smaller car together with their wives, two Soviet security men and a driver and were escorted to Communist East Berlin.

It was a rough ending to an evening that had begun with Leonov leading like a cheer-

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Wilson has proposed a Commonwealth prime ministers' mission to solve the Rhodesian independence crisis.

He disclosed in a nationwide television broadcast Wednesday that he suggested this in a special message to Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith, who returned to Salisbury after the breakdown of independence negotiations in London.

SMITH PRESSED — Wilson said he pressed Smith — if Smith continued to reject independence for the white-ruled central African colony on British terms — to agree to a new Commonwealth initiative, "to a mission of senior Commonwealth prime ministers representing all the prime ministers and presidents and peoples of the Commonwealth to see if agreement can be reached."

"I know I speak for everyone... all parties, all our people when I say to Mr. Smith 'Prime Minister, think again,'" Wilson added.

NOT GIVING UP — The prime minister, who recorded his broadcast several hours before it was televised, said his government is not giving up in its attempt to negotiate Rhodesian independence. "Too much is at stake."

"Yesterday, I got on the phone to the prime minister of Australia, Sir Robert Menzies. Last night I was in direct touch with 19 other heads of Commonwealth governments."

MESSAGE GIVEN — Wilson said the British high commissioner in Salisbury has handed over a message from him to Smith.

Wilson asked Smith to receive "a mission of senior Commonwealth prime ministers... to see if agreement can be reached, without bloodshed, without economic disruption, in harmony and on a basis designed to secure the future stability, security, prosperity, welfare and independence of a Commonwealth country we all want to help."

WARNED REPEATEDLY — Wilson said the Rhodesian government had been repeatedly warned of what would be involved in seizing independence illegally. "The whole Commonwealth, 21 nations, without exception, have reinforced these warnings, this urgent advice not to enter on this dangerous road..."

MANY VOICES — He said to their warnings had been added "the voice, urgent, friendly, compelling, of almost every country with whom Rhodesia has had dealings and would wish in the future to have dealings."

He added: "Under our laws, a Rhodesia which took its independence by unilateral action, without the authority of Parliament, would be acting illegally, in a state of rebellion."

Wilson Sees Queen

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Wilson left his London office today to fly to Balmoral, Scotland, to see Queen Elizabeth. Some sources speculated he may be ready to call a snap general election.

However, other sources here said the unusual move underscored the gravity of the Rhodesia crisis and threat to break away from Britain without giving the black majority the dominant voice in government.

Wilson warned last night that a unilateral declaration of independence could engulf Southern Africa in a violent race war.

A terse announcement from No. 10 Downing Street early this morning said Wilson would return from his trip to Scotland later today. Informed political sources said the Prime Minister wanted to tell the Queen what action his government would take if Rhodesia seceded.

The Queen is vacationing at Balmoral.

Soldiers Man Plants

ROME (UPI) — Italian officials, Tuesday night ordered army engineers to take over power plants in order to avoid a power blackout when the nation's 100,000 electrical workers walk off their jobs.

Labor leaders ordered the strike at midnight to back up demands for a wage boost. A last-minute attempt by Labor Minister Umberto Delella to halt the 48-hour strike ended in failure. Communist and non-Communist labor unions announced after a talk with the minister that the walkout would start as scheduled.

Shipyards Pledged Work Subsidies Stay — Pearson

By FRASER KELLY

Colonist Ottawa Bureau

QUEBEC CITY — Prime Minister Pearson Tuesday promised a national shipbuilding plan "that will take care of all regional interests."

He was touring two shipbuilding yards in Levis, Quebec, but it was obvious he was concerned with the shipbuilding business in Western Canada.

He assured hundreds of workers that the federal government subsidy to the industry "is not going to lapse."

"We have not abandoned the subsidy, we are re-examining it, looking for a new kind... we know how many men depend on shipbuilding and we intend to keep them working."

He stressed that the federal government is interested in shipbuilding in all regions, not just Eastern Canada. In spite of the fact he was surrounded by Quebec workers whose contracts are running out, he said: "There are times these contracts must go to the West."

The Prime Minister said he was "quite aware" that the uncertainty about government policy in shipbuilding is damaging to the industry.

"We will try to correct that as quickly as possible. These decisions will be made very shortly after Nov. 8," he said. He pointed out that the federal subsidy to the industry last year was $40,000,000 — "greater than it's ever been."

Mr. Pearson toured the shipworks, meeting hundreds of workers first hand after he had private talks with Quebec premier Jean Lesage.

Although they emerged from the talks arm in arm, Mr. Lesage firmly declared to a press conference that he would not actively support the Prime Minister in this campaign.

Prosperity 'Factor'

By FRASER KELLY

Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — When Lester Bowles Pearson first faced the press after announcing the election, he had The Making of the Prime Minister tucked under his arm.

He didn't tell newsmen what, if anything, he had gleaned from that book on the last British election. But his campaigning to date indicates he has learned a great deal about the fine art of politics since he faced the electorate in 1963.

He speaks with much more confidence, directness and vigor. Just being Prime Minister seems to have strengthened him. This time other leaders, particularly Conservative leader Diefenbaker, must carry the campaign to him and he knows it.

In every election campaign there are issues — which the party leaders debate across the nation. There are also "factors" — which usually don't make headlines — but may be even more important to the voters.

Issues develop and change during a campaign. Basic factors remain the same. The Pearson team is confident that one such factor — unprecedented prosperity — will carry the day for them on November 8.

More people are working, fewer are unemployed. The vast majority of Canadians are earning more and spending more. History indicates that voters with full stomachs and money in their pockets tend to stay with the party in power.

So the Liberals feel that if they can prevent the issues from running against them, the boom will do the rest.

As the campaign entered its final four weeks only one issue — morality in government — posed a dangerous threat.

Mr. Diefenbaker has used scandal in high places and the recent Quebec murders as proof the voters must "throw the rascals out."

Republican leader Barry Goldwater failed dismally in the last American election on the same issue. But he was not John Diefenbaker and Mr. Pearson certainly does not compare with President Johnson on the hunting. Nor did the Prime Minister enter the campaign with the president's overwhelming popular support.

He has let other ministers, such as Trade Minister Sharp and Justice Minister Cardin, carry the attack on Mr. Diefenbaker while he has made all the major policy statements.

He made most of these state-

Three Tots Die in Fire Rescue Attempt Fails

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP) — Three small children died Tuesday when the desperate efforts of a neighbor to rescue them from a fire-engulfed three-room house failed.

Harry Rennie, 4, Donald James, 3, and Deborah Joan, 1 — the children of Mary Jane McCombe and Gordon Reid — were trapped in the bedroom of the house when fire broke out in the kitchen. Neighbor Sam Rennie suffered burns when he tried to break through to the screaming children.

Mr. Pearson didn't meet the press stating only: "Mr. Lesage will speak for both of us."

The Quebec prime minister said it was traditional that the prime minister of his province stay out of the federal campaign. "Just as the Prime Minister of Canada does in any provincial campaign."

He did not appear on the stage with Mr. Pearson and the other of rebellion, and we would have to act accordingly.

"But, more than that, Rhodesia would, for all practical purposes, be without a friend in the world, unrecognized, illegally governed, alone."

Wilson, in a personal tribute to Smith, said:

"I recognize his great sincerity, even though I disagree with him, and even though I feel we are living in different worlds, almost in different centuries."

"Above all, I welcome the fact that he stated his case, his belief, his principles, absolutely frankly, absolutely straight, so there was no room for misunderstanding."

"If we have failed to agree it is because the issues are so deep, so important to both of us. We would have been guilty of the gravest deception if we had fluffed these issues or pretended the differences were small and capable of being glossed over."

"We have tried and we have failed."

Anticonvulsant Drugs Vary, May Cause Side Effects

By JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

Dear Dr. Molner: My son, 14, has epilepsy and has been taking phenobarbital and dilantin to control his seizures. We had to increase the dosage and his gums have become very puffy, partly covering his teeth to quite a degree. We have three problems: soreness, an attractive appearance, and lack of appetite toward certain foods, especially meat.

The dentist says the medication is responsible for this puffiness and suggested rinsing with a special mouthwash. The doctor seems to be evasive. My son also is quite hairy and has to shave twice a week.—MRS. L.E.

I believe your dentist is right, but I would add further suggestions. The drugs are known, at times, to cause thickening of the gums as well as increase in hairiness—in some individuals.

Studies indicate (as far as the gums are concerned) that the drugs can interfere with absorption of Vitamin C. Therefore, large doses of the vitamins are wasted as a treatment.

In addition, it may be possible to switch to another type of anticonvulsant drug, since the gums recede again when the dilantin is stopped.

SOME OVERLAP

It may, of course, take some careful trial-and-error work to find another combination which will control the seizures, but there are a number of anticonvulsants available. While they do not have identical actions and purposes, there is some overlap.

I thought twice, Mrs. L. E., before printing your letter, because of the risk of frightening some people away from the anticonvulsant drugs. That would be too bad, because they are marvelous in controlling or preventing epileptic seizures.

However, I suppose we do best to remember that almost any drug will have side effects under some circumstances. If the dosage has to be heavy, or a certain individual is sensitive to its action, side effects can develop. Yet other patients, using the same drugs, have no trouble at all.

Dear Dr. Molner: What does a D. and C. on a young married woman involve? Will this hinder her from becoming pregnant?—T.Y.

D. and C. means "dilation and curettage." The opening of the uterus is stretched open enough so that special instruments can be inserted to scrape the surface gently, and to remove anything which should not be there.

For instance, this procedure is wise after a miscarriage, but there are various other reasons for it.

D. and C. will not hinder pregnancy, in fact, sometimes it is very helpful in making pregnancy possible.

'Apply Force In Rhodesia' If Necessary

By BORIS MISKEW

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The United Nations General Assembly approved an urgent resolution Tuesday calling on Britain to prevent minority-ruled Rhodesia from carrying out her threat to declare her independence against the wishes of the British government.

The 117-member assembly voted 107 to 2 in favor of a resolution calling on Britain to use all possible measures to prevent a unilateral declaration of independence by Rhodesia.

CANADA TOO

Canada voted with the 107 member nations while France abstained and Britain announced she was not participating in the vote. South Africa and Portugal voted against the resolution sponsored by 40 Afro-Asian nations.

UN sources said the Rhodesian question would be brought before the 11-nation Security Council immediately if Rhodesia's threat was carried out. A draft version of the resolution was passed Monday after talks in London between Prime Minister Wilson and Prime Minister Ian Smith of Rhodesia broke off.

'BY CHRISTMAS'

Smith, whose government represents 225,000 white settlers in a land of 4,000,000 black Africans, returned to Salisbury, Rhodesia's capital. He said Rhodesia likely would be independent by Christmas.

Sir Roger Jackling, a mem-

ber of the British delegation, explained that Britain would not participate in the vote because of her long-standing position she has sole responsibility for Rhodesia. Britain opposes the granting of Rhodesian independence until some arrangements can be worked out to assure the black Africans in the country of equal rights.

SOLID HOSTILITY

Sir Roger warned that if Rhodesia should "cut herself off from the Crown and from Britain, she would find herself practically friendless in the face of the almost solid hostility of the world."

Independence by Christmas

SALISBURY (AP) — Prime Minister Ian Smith said Tuesday on his return from fruitless negotiations in London, "I think I would take an even bet" Rhodesia will be independent from Britain by Christmas.

Hundreds of cheering supporters—almost all white—stood in a drizzling rain to welcome Smith back to this central African colony.

Men, women and children joined in singing For He's a Jolly Good Fellow as Smith emerged from his airliner.

Smith said he would have talks with his ministers immediately and "we may have another cabinet meeting... to discuss this problem."

"It would be almost impossible for the British government to give us independence under any terms due to pressure from the African - Asian bloc," Smith said. "They are ready to give us independence on condition we immediately surrender our independence."

"The British government wanted a referendum to decide if we wanted independence," he said. "They wanted this referendum to be on the basis of one man, one vote."

"We don't believe in pushing the African (Negro) forward merely because he is an African, as they do in other parts of Africa," Smith said. "But I would not be part of anything to hold the African back."

He ruled out the possibility of further talks with the British government "unless something completely unforeseen, revolutionary or dramatic happens."

Students Fast For Hunger

OTAWA (CP)—While many Canadian families enjoyed their traditional Thanksgiving turkey dinners Monday, 21 shivering and weak students ended a weekend fast on Parliament Hill.

The local high school and college students fasted from 9 a.m. Saturday to 8 p.m. Monday to focus attention on the problem of world hunger.

FINAL MINUTES

"I am hungry and weak," said 15-year-old Oliver Kent of Ottawa, as he fast entered its final minutes. "However, if our fast can bring attention to the need to fight world hunger and starvation, then it is worth it."

"What we want is to receive attention for the conference in Ottawa next weekend of the Young World Mobilization Appeal, which supports the fight of world hunger."

Heeding medical advice, the students limited themselves to one glass of orange juice and a few cups of black coffee a day.

M. R. Nanjappa of Mysore, India, a Carleton University student who joined in the fast, told the gathering, "I want to thank you for this effort on behalf of the developing nations of the world. I know what hunger and poverty are."

FROM B.C.

Patti Roberts, 18, who recently moved to Ottawa from Spillimacheen, B.C., said the fast "made us know how the world's millions of starving people feel."

"We are not vegetarians," said Michael Posluns of Toronto, "but we want to get involved in this problem and not just gestures."

CONGRATULATIONS

Prime Minister Pearson shook hands with many of the students as he arrived for a cabinet meeting. He congratulated them and said he would like to see more people take an active interest in their objective, and not just "talk about it."

The Tide May Have Turned

Viet Nam War an Elusive Victory

By ARCH MacKENZIE

WASHINGTON (CP) — Sheer American military power—mainly air power—has turned the tide in Viet Nam. But if a battle has been won, victory in the war remains elusive.

What happens next depends on the Viet Cong insurgents and Communist North Viet Nam, still expressing determination to fight on for 20 years if necessary.

It seems clear that the fight in South Viet Nam, a country threatened as recently as July hilly central highlands, must revert back to operations on a smaller scale for the Viet Cong. It is a different war now, better suited to the old Viet Cong techniques of hit-and-run, terrorism, political agitation and the rest.

Bernard Fall, a French academic here whose experience in Viet Nam extends to the last days of the French regime in 1954, returned recently from a personal look at the battered south and reports in the weekly publication New Republic:

"The immense influx of American manpower (not exceeding 140,000) and firepower, and the ruthless use of the latter, have made the South Viet Nam war, in the short run, militarily 'unlosable'."

He adds: "What changed the character of the Viet Nam war was not the decision to bomb North Viet Nam; not the decision to use American ground troops in South Viet Nam; but the decision to wage unlimited aerial warfare inside the country at the price of literally pounding the place to pieces."

American planes have flown more than 20,000 missions since February over the Communist north alone. The activity in the south, robbing the Viet Cong of security day and night, has been much higher.

Reports here, based on the occasional Japanese or other traveller to the north and the capital of Hanoi, indicate heavy damage, even including some non-military targets although U.S. officials deny that agriculture, for example, now is being struck.

Agriculture rather than industry is the most vulnerable chink in North Viet Nam because compared with the south, the north is a poor producer of rice and other food.

Newweek magazine says there is evidence that American bombs have fallen on a few targets in the vital dam-and-dike network of North Viet Nam's Red River Delta where a wholesale assault would cause widespread flooding and crop havoc.

More recently, tied in with heavier American plane losses, have come indications that U.S. bombs are being directed at the most vital of the two rail links with China. One runs to the northwest section of China. The other from Hanoi connects about 100 miles away with the Chinese border to the northeast and loss of this link would really pinch, it is assumed.

Thus, the American bombing of the north has come a long way from the first strikes last winter near the 17th parallel dividing the two Viet Nams.

However, there is some concern here about the long-range psychological cost of the barrage of bombs, bullets and napalm falling on the Viet Cong on the south and on the intermingled civilian population as well.

Sharp increases in Viet Cong defections testify to the impact on their morale, but it is tied in with similar movements of refugees seeking to escape.

Unwarranted Change

THE SPECIAL commissioner who reviewed the salaries of postal workers and some other federal civil servants, Judge J. C. Anderson, has suggested in his third and final report that the post office might advantageously be turned into a Crown corporation instead of a government department.

The thoughts behind this suggestion apparently are twofold—first that if the post office were to become a Crown company, it "would be insulated from politics and the last vestiges of patronage would be taken away from it," and second that as a corporation it could adjust postal rates so as to pay its own way and not, as now, lose money. The judge noted, though, that even as at present organized the post office might adopt financial practices similar to those of public utilities to overcome its deficits.

One may well wonder, however, if it is essential or entirely desirable that the post office should break even or make a profit on its operations, as long as its goal is maximum efficiency and economy. Postal communication is such a vital part of the national life that there cannot be much objection to subsidizing it from taxes if this is necessary to keep it within the easy reach of everyone.

As for insulating the post office from politics, this could also mean—if another Crown company, the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, is taken as an example—insulating it from Parliament. This might suit a post office bureaucracy very well indeed. But is it what the people of Canada want?

And finally, what need is there to make the post office a corporation in order to remove from it "the last vestiges of patronage"? All that is wanted in this respect, surely, is a government determined to see that patronage ceases and is barred by new procedures from reappearing.

Left Wondering

WHILE IN ONTARIO citizenship papers are being given to a Dutch couple who refused to take the oath "So help me God" at their hearing, and instead were eventually permitted simply to affirm their allegiance, a Victoria man and wife of the same national origin and in similar circumstances are left wondering when and if they too can become Canadian citizens.

In the Ontario instance, the Court of Appeals of that province ruled the affirmation was acceptable. But in the Victoria case, Judge Montague Tyrwhitt-Drake could find no legal alternative to the religious oath, as prescribed in the Citizenship Act, which the immigrants would not submerge their athletic principles to swear.

So there the matter stands. A report from Ottawa later indicated that officials of the citizenship and immigration department were studying the Victoria situation in relation to projected amendments to the Citizenship Act. But the minister of citizenship and immigration, on the other hand, gave indications of considering the problem solved by the ruling of the Ontario appeal court, even though this sets no binding precedent in the other provinces.

The straightforward way to assure that worthy potential citizens of this country are accorded the freedom of belief that Canadians hold dear, and are not barred because of it, is to change the act so that an affirmation is clearly permitted.

Departmental studies have a way of being protracted. But this is one facet of citizenship policy that could—and should—be put right with a minimum of delay when Parliament once more gets down to business in Ottawa.

Risk for the Unwary

UNHAPPILY THE Canadian Highway Safety Council's prediction of 57 deaths over the Thanksgiving weekend—bad enough, in all conscience—was tragically inaccurate.

Actually the Canadian Press count to Monday midnight was 81 dead. The number of injured was not totalled, but it is safe to assume it was in the ratio of four to one at least.

Hopefully the Safety Council had scanned the figures since the black record of 68 highway deaths in 1962, and it was probably justified, even with the higher aggregate of vehicles on the roads, in anticipating a lower count this year.

But in Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia the loss of life was substantially higher than ever before.

Most authorities today subscribe to the theory that a defensive driving attitude will provide a maximum of protection. They define this as an awareness of driving conditions and an alertness for the inconsistencies and mistakes of other drivers.

High speed automobiles and 60 and 70-mile-an-hour highways require the same concentration on the job that airplane pilots cultivate.

For example, in Cmdr. J. M. Leeming of the B.C. Automobile Association points out, road surface conditions may change very rapidly, and dangerously, with the weather. A little rain, a skin of frost can make for miscalculation and mishap.

This is the time of year when the sensible driver should think of mechanical safety checks and winterization of his machine. Brakes, tires, batteries, lights, windshield wipers, seat belts should be examined by an expert and his recommendations acted upon. Otherwise there will occur an increasing element of risk which is simply not acceptable.

It may be contentious to say it, but a few dollars' worth of precaution is the best insurance a driver can buy.

Matter of Justice

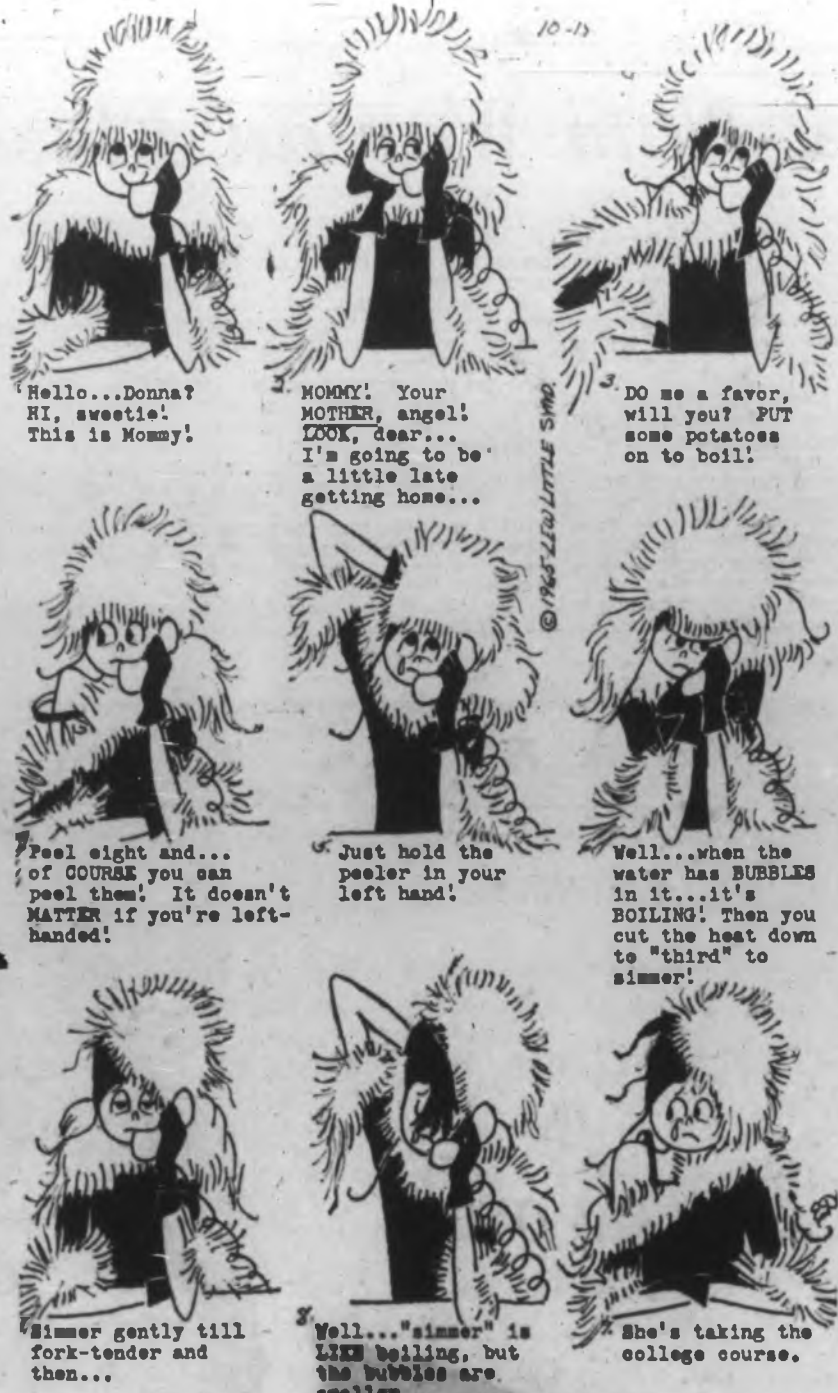

WHILE THE REEVE and council of Central Saanich are awaiting the recommendation of the Capital Region Planning Board with respect to the rezoning of agricultural property at Turgoose Point to allow erection of a cement mixing plant and builders' supply depot they might be well advised to listen to the opinion of home-owners affected.

The Turgoose Point subdivision has been developed on the reasonable assumption that this area would continue to be zoned for agriculture and residence. It is a beautiful location, and some of the homes represent an investment of $70,000 or more.

Indian lands, wooded and virgin, press close to the south boundary, James Island road, safe from any industrial encroachment.

In justice to the Turgoose Point "settlers" they would seem to deserve the same protection.

There are other suitable areas on the peninsula for a cement plant; on the Sidney waterfront, for instance.

Notes from the campaign trail...

It's almost irrefragable, this ghastly display of white gleaming from all these thousands of election posters that, grimly grin on telephone poles, church basement walls, college auditorium stages and anywhere else the candidates are in the way to what the political trade knows as The Campaign Photograph.

In some of the more hideous, you can guess right back almost to the winner's teeth.

It must have the dentists, this vast national facial display that gapes with all these countless features of smiling teeth, the pictures of party rallies, candidates nomination conventions and assorted campaign rehearsals as the electrifying thrills and laughs in merry ways.

Like the resuscitating style campaign, The Campaign Photograph underlines—on a glittering gold and white enamel—just how much fashion in politics have been changing.

In what this campaign new heady members of The Good Old Days, the candidate was a deadly serious character.

He tried to look like a statesman.

But as Prime Minister Pearson, who initially made his name and fame in world statescraft, noted with a very grin the other day in a Toronto campaign appearance:

"Please don't tell me a statesman—I'm not a dead politician yet."

The Old Campaign Photographs of only a few elections ago—no further back than in former prime minister "Uncle Leader" St. Laurent's time—look now almost like caricatures of the old-time, turn-of-century, gas-light era politicians.

Dear old "Uncle Leader," so quietly courtly, so gently prim, so properly serious.

And for me, a conservative leader, Col. George Drew, at heart a warm personality who could never publicly show, in his two losing campaigns against the Liberal St. Laurent, such stern dedication, such unyielding propriety, such inflexible dignity.

Then along came Dief and Mike and five elections in eight years.

With them and the new wave of parliamentarians, the age of the political pumpkin face, the end of the big election grin.

The candidates back there in bloody hollow West by South may have lost the women's vote.

the business vote, the labor vote, even his wife's vote, but facing inevitable and humiliating defeat, there he'll be, beaming out at you from those posters, his campaign folders, your newspaper or TV, grinning grimly his way into political discard.

For contrast, try to remember the fine old photographs—they're still in the history books—of the Sir John A. Macdonald and the Abe Lincoln era.

Faces so serious, solemn, even amoral.

And the old political picture albums—they've got fine collections down here at National Liberal and Conservative headquarters—show it was that same serious way straight down the years through to R. B. Bennett, Mackenzie King, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Harry Truman, George Drew, "Uncle Leader" and the dawn of television.

Since then there has been a dogged determination, a dedication to the ear-to-ear grin.

Prime Minister Pearson beams at it. But, somehow, he manages it. Quite convincingly, too.

Dief throws back his head and roars, open-mouthed.

Tommy Douglas chuckles eternally.

Sacred Bob Thompson smiles with a wistful sincerity.

Credulous Real Caouette laughs a hard, flat laugh that comes out in The Campaign Photograph in a sort of menacing steel-trap way.

Even that still-dreaded "Grey Eminence," Transport Minister J. W. "Jolly Jaws" Pheasant, probably never to be remembered as the feared Mr. Fix, is chuckling in his campaign photographs, and mirthfully shaking in great good humor like a bowl of jelly with the giggles.

Getting The Campaign Photograph taken, printed and pasted up has become one of the antic arts.

Smiles, chuckles, and hearty har-hars in this election are no laughing matter—especially for the poor defenceless taxpayer who has to look at them and probably weeps.

which, incidentally, is probably true.

This Afro-Asian rivalry is even felt among the Islamic populations living between the Libyan Desert and the Atlantic Ocean.

When one reads the history of countries like Morocco, Tunisia, and Algeria one will find that the Arab occupants, after a short time, have followed the tradition of the autochthonous Berbers and turned against the East.

This explains the curious Spanish-Moroccan symbiosis since the 16th century. Once Granada was retaken by the Christians from the Mohammedans, one sees the Spanish fleet helping the Maghreb against the Turks.

These historic traditions reappear in our own day. At a moment when a wave of irrational sentiment subdues, political realities once again prevail over ideologies. They undermine the Afro-Asian bloc. This is a major fact that the Western powers should take into account while planning their political strategy.

THE Conference of the Bandung nations, originally planned for June in Algiers, will take place in November, at least the interested governments say so. In reality, it makes no great difference whether the meeting is called or not. If Bandung was world-shaking event, its repetition in 1965 will rather resemble a dynamic idea; self-determination and decolonization. During the last decade events went further than the dreams of 1945. A practically resolved problem no longer moves the crowds.

History teaches us that at the end of wars of coalition, once the enemy has disappeared, the former friends start fighting each other. In fact, no great alliance ever survived its success. This is equally true in politics. It was rightly stated, when President Ben Bella was overthrown in Algeria, that this was an African insurrection against an Afro-Asian personality. Similar developments are likely in other countries. The rivalry between the two great continents is no longer simply a speculation.

This trend is clearly reflected in the ups and downs of Colonel Abdul Nasser's personal position. The leader of the U.A.R. tried to play two fields at the same time; he was an Arab and an African. This was possible a few years ago; it is no longer feasible.

The tension between Africa and Asia came into the open during the Congo events. Mr. Tshombe's imprisonment by the Nasser government during the Non-Aligned Nations' Conference dramatized this feeling, as did the war in Yemen.

The identification of Asia with the Arabs and Chinese has awakened old remembrances and present fears. The Africans realize that theirs is a rich but sparsely populated land. They know that the problems of China and India are their own. Nothing is more logical than to feel that the latter two countries have colonizing designs,

The Churchill Story

In Two World Wars His Skills Prevailed

ON the morning of June 6, 21 years ago, men of the 2nd Canadian Division struggled ashore through the heavily mined approaches to Juno Beach, which stretched between the Normandy villages of La Riviere and Lae. Their attack formed part of the great invasion which, after four years, was taking Allied troops back into Europe—the culmination of Winston Churchill's plans, begun in the days which followed Dunkirk.

This action, like all the others of that historic day, was marked on a map in the Cabinet War Room in Whitehall with one of the map pins which for more than four years had shown how the Allied forces—and their enemies—were faring on the battlefields of the world.

Since May, 1940, when he had become prime minister and minister of defence, Churchill had dominated British strategy—even more thoroughly than he had dominated it in the early days of the previous war, a quarter of a century earlier. At the start of the First World War, Churchill had been first lord of the admiralty, and it was due to his foresight that the Home Fleet had been sent to battle stations, and the naval reserves mobilized, before the actual outbreak of war.

By RONALD W. CLARK, author of "Sir Winston Churchill"

Churchill's record in that earlier war was extraordinarily varied, beginning with the Anwerp operation during which he was sent to Belgium in October, 1914, in a desperate attempt to organize the defence of the city, then almost invested by the Germans. Although the attempt was a failure, Churchill's efforts had helped the Belgian army to disengage itself; had held up the enemy for a crucial few days; and had helped to make possible the decisive First Battle of the Marne, which halted the German advance.

It was largely on Churchill's responsibility that the Dardanelles campaign was opened the following year. The arguments for and against trying to push up the narrow channel and capture Constantinople (now Istanbul) have been argued down the years—but the failure of the operation, and of the Dardanelles landing which followed it, proved disastrous for Churchill, who resigned from the government and rejoined his own regiment, the Queen's Own Oxfordshire Hussars. He served on the Western Front until the summer of 1916, only then returning to England to become minister of munitions, a post which he held until the end of the war.

The "20-years' armistice," as it has been called, ended on September 3, 1939, and one of the first acts of the then prime minister, Neville Chamberlain, was to appoint Churchill first lord of the admiralty once again.

Churchill became the minister most responsible for the trapping of the Graf Spee off the River Plate, and for the naval side of the ill-fated Norwegian operations. Chamberlain's resignation followed, and in May, 1940, Churchill stepped up to become the country's leader. This was just as well.

The summer of 1940 saw the first great turning point of the war. For after the Allies had been thrust off the Continent, the Royal Air Force Fighter Command, aided by the "wonder" eyes of radar, won the crucial Battle of Britain. Much depended on Churchill, and not only through the major part which he played in the planning and implementation of Britain's defences. His speeches roused the country as nothing else could have roused it. And his foresight in sending armored forces to the Middle East at Britain's blackest period was to save that area—and all that went with it—two years later.

One of Churchill's most courageous acts came when, in the summer of 1941, the Germans invaded Russia. He had for long been an implacable opponent of Communism, yet his great broadcast on the Sunday evening of the attack on Russia left no doubts—"Any man or state who fights against Nazism will have our aid. Any man or state who marches with Hitler is our foe."

In the years that followed, Churchill travelled the world in his efforts to win the war—the peace. In August, 1941, he met Roosevelt in Placentia Bay off the coast of Newfoundland, where the two men hammered out the details of the Atlantic Charter. Later in the year he addressed a joint session of the two houses of the United States Congress—and also Canadian members of Parliament in Ottawa. It was on this second occasion that he described how a French general had said that Britain would have her neck wrung like a chicken, and added the immortal comment: "Some chicken!" and then, as the laughter died down, "... some neck!"

In the summer of 1942, Churchill again crossed the Atlantic, meeting Roosevelt at Hyde Park this time and deciding with him that the world's first atomic bomb should be built in the United States. He conferred with Allied leaders in Cairo, he met Stalin in Moscow, visited Roosevelt again in Washington, where a United Nations Organization was first discussed, and later, in 1943, went to Quebec for the momentous conference where plans for the coming invasion of Europe were finally settled. Tehran, Yalta in the Crimea, and Potsdam on the outskirts of Berlin, were only three of the other places to which he travelled on war work, guiding diplomacy, pushing his own military ideas, and forever alive with suggestions, comments, and his famous "action this day" demands.

And by the time that the British electorate bravely dismissed him in July, 1945, the European war had been ended two months, and the war against Japan had a mere fortnight to run.

From World Federalists

By MAX FREEDMAN from Dublin, N.E.

PATTERN for Peace

Twenty years ago a group of distinguished men and women met in this gracious little town in New England, under the leadership of Mr. Granville Clark, to consider the best ways to protect mankind from war and to build a truly functioning world community. They were able to take a long view, even at the risk of being thought visionary and impractical, because they were acting with the independence of private citizens without any fettering obligations to any political party or government.

When that group first met, the United Nations stood at the pinnacle of hope. It was supported by a universal faith that it would always be able to preserve the peace, and this hope had yet to be tested by the cruel realities of an unstable world. The Dublin group did not choose the easy course of echoing this belief in the United Nations as if it alone could guarantee a future free from poverty and free from war. It was convinced that the United Nations could never achieve all its goals while it had to work within the restrictions imposed by national sovereignty. It therefore issued an impressive and influential declaration of principles calling for a much swifter movement toward world government on the principles of federalism.

No one then thought that a world federal government would soon be formed. But in these 20 years an increasing number of us have come to believe that national sovereignty must be tempered and replaced by regional and international systems of co-operation. The doctrines of the world federalists are not always persuasive; they do not carry conviction on every point; yet somehow their advocates seem to have caught a glimpse of a few large truths on which the future of this generation may rest.

Meeting once again at the call of Mr. Granville Clark, and with President Kingman Brewster of Yale as chairman, the second Dublin conference, with some of the first participants again in attendance, has now presented another statement of principles. What do these men and women, with their great experience in public affairs, have to say about the needs of our times?

The basic point, from which the entire declaration derives its philosophic authority, is that no enforceable system of world law now exists.

The absence of any system of effective world law precluding international violence makes arms races and recurrent wars inevitable. Failure to correct this basic defect in the organization of human society has now become a threat to civilization itself.

The Dublin conference points out that the United Nations Charter, drafted before Hiroshima, is inadequate for its avowed purpose of maintaining peace and security. While appreciative of what the world organization has accomplished, it finds the United Nations now deficient in these respects:

1. Nations having more than one-fourth of the population of the world are not members.
2. The Security Council has often been paralyzed by the veto.
3. There is no standing peace force to take effective action against aggression.
4. The one nation, one vote rule in the General Assembly makes unrealistic the conferring of needed legislative powers on that body.
5. There is no court system with the jurisdiction and powers required for the peaceful settlement of disputes among nations.
6. There is no system to provide sufficient and reliable revenues.

The conference's first recommendation was for universal and complete disarmament subject at all stages to an effective inspection system. The accomplishment of each stage must be carefully verified before proceeding to the next stage.

Parallel with disarmament process, a strong police force should be established. It should be composed of individual recruits and not of national contingents. There should be safeguards against any undue proportion from any nation or group of nations.

The third recommendation stated that membership should be open to every nation. Citizens of member nations should also be citizens of the world organization. No member nation should be expelled or allowed to withdraw.

Then there would be a legislative body as the core of the world organization. It would have a system of representation and voting procedures whereby the peoples of all the member nations will be fairly represented. This formula would allow weighted representation as well as representation by population.

No veto power could be exercised by any member of the executive branch. The court system would have all the powers and jurisdiction required to settle all disputes which threaten world peace. Revenues would be levied on member nations on the basis of their ability to pay.

Dart Coon Club Celebrates With Noisy, Colorful Events

Flagstaff Street was full of noise and color Sunday when the Dart Coon Club celebrated its 50th anniversary.

Fireworks and food punctuated the festivities of Chinatown's Masonic organization and hundreds turned out to see the fun.

Starting at 1 p.m. there was a lion in the streets... not a real one, but a very colorful one. Borne by young men in pairs, the shaggy beast prowled Flagstaff Street, bedevilled by firecrackers, gongs and drums.

"We had to change every three or four minutes," said Jack Tang, who helped organize the show, "because the lion's head and long cape exert about 40 pounds pressure." There were 12 boys for the lion costume and about nine on drums, gongs and cymbals.

The celestial lion ended his dance in front of the Dart Coon Club where he received donations of money for the club's charities.

A lively demonstration of self-defence—called Mo Kung Fon—was given by a team from Vancouver. Pikes, pitchforks, swords, staves and knives cut the air while the team put on its display. At one point two of the team jostled with a hoe and saw horse.

A number of old-timers of the Chinese community attended the fête, including 80-year-old Low Kee How who, for a time, watched the fun with doll-like Norma Jean Hong, aged three.

Three of the charter members of the Masonic club were honored with golden medallions to mark the 50th anniversary. They were Chow Soon and Lum Kwai Ti of Vancouver and Gee Duck Lim of Victoria. The other two charter members—Wong Wah and Woo Him Fook—are in hospital. Also presented with a medallion was long-time president Lee Gan.

Present president Chow King was host to a banquet attended by several hundred guests, including members from lodges on the mainland and other parts of Vancouver Island.

A Chinese opera, Peach Blossom Fan, brought the festivities to a close. Played to a packed house—scores were turned away—the four-hour opera was performed by the Ching Wun Musical Society of Vancouver.

Four Victoria actors appeared in the production—Wally Lee, Dick Louie, Norman Quon and Paul Lee—and Victoria musicians also took part.

Stamps in Danger

VANCOUVER (CP)—A crime syndicate that operates around the world is trying to steal rare stamp and coin collections in Vancouver, police said.

Total value of local collections is estimated at between $13,000,000 and $23,000,000.

"While the police are hunting them down I would like to warn collectors to keep their valuables in a safe place," said chief Ralph Booth.

Chasing Uncommitted Vote

Douglas on Fifth Journey

CRANBROOK (CP)—T. C. Douglas has started on the third of an unprecedented five cross-country federal election trips carrying the message that for the first time the New Democratic Party has a chance to form the government.

The national NDP leader said in an interview Monday night he has never before been able to make so many coast-to-coast trips in the eight weeks before an election.

One of the main pitches he makes is that the number of uncommitted voters in Canada, according to polls, is the highest in history.

His speech in this southeastern British Columbia city Monday was typical. He said the polls show that 35 to 40 per cent of the voters have not decided which party to vote for.

The polls also said that the NDP support is up 25 per cent. Thus if the NDP got its increase percentage of the popular vote and 75 per cent of the uncommitted vote it could form the government.

For the first time it now is arithmetically possible to elect a "people's government," he said, adding that he has noticed an unprecedented amount of support in his trips across the country. Mr. Douglas left Vancouver Monday morning, spent a quiet Thanksgiving Day here—finding time to attend a hockey game—and addressed a small gathering at night.

Tuesday he left for Calgary and from there he will continue on to Eastern Canada, interrupting his trip to return to Vancouver next Saturday to attend a party in his honor. Then he will return to Toronto and continue on to the Maritime provinces.

Try Bonded Stock on a friend without letting him see the label

It's the best way to find out what people really think about a whisky: how do they like it when they don't know which brand they're drinking?

If you've tried Bonded Stock yourself, the playback won't surprise you. Bonded Stock is a great Canadian whisky. You can conceal the label but you can't disguise the flavour. It's an extremely mellow whisky with a deceptively smooth flavour.

The other thing that's deceptive about Bonded Stock is its price. But the price doesn't fool people with taste.

Bonded Stock's sensible price is a sort of bonus you get for good judgment.

REGULAR • CHOCOLATE COATED • JUNIOR

A rise of 107 per cent in venereal disease occurrences in British Columbia has resulted in adoption of a public health course for Grade 10 students in Victoria.

The decision has been made by Victoria School District trustees. Mrs. A. B. Thompson, reporting on a meeting of the Association of Union Boards of Health in Vancouver, told members of the metropolitan board of health Tuesday that venereal disease has increased as high as 305 per cent in some areas of the province.

Mrs. Thompson is a school trustee as well as a health board member.

CONSTRUCTION SITES The spiralling increase, a source of concern to the provincial department of health, was found mainly in construction areas of the province, such as Prince George.

It was caused mostly by a contingent of 500 to 1,000 women who followed the camps, she reported.

TWO CASES DAILY Two cases of syphilis were reported every day in the province, one of them new, and this was probably only an extremely small fraction of the total, she said.

In some areas in the province where the epidemic is most rampant, there are no medical officers of health, Mrs. Thompson explained.

Sex education in schools was another subject discussed said Mrs. Thompson. The consensus was that it should be taught as an adjunct to knowledge given in the home, but not as a substitute.

Everyone agreed that it was time it was standardized and brought under the provincial educational curriculum, the delegate said.

HEALTH MEETING Board chairman Reeve R. G. Lee of Central Saanich said he was meeting provincial health department officials this week to talk about the board of health and its possible reorganization.

There has been injustice for years, said Reeve Lee, in that the metropolitan area, Victoria, Oak Bay and Esquimalt, have been contributing much more to the board's maintenance than rural areas.

HOPING RECTIFIED This was an inequality he hoped to see rectified.

Dr. Harold R. Carter of Oak Bay asked what was being done about inoculation for measles.

Senior medical officer of health Dr. J. L. M. Whitbread said no vaccine was available for free inoculations now, but he had hopes and believed that it was coming as a free public service.

FRUSTRATION At 25 Yards LONDON (UPI)—Sixty-six-year-old Arthur Ries, who claims to have driven more than 400,000 miles, failed his English driving test Tuesday for the 14th time without even getting in his car.

Ries, a retired machine operator, with an international licence, turned up at the suburban Hendon test centre primed to face his new ordeal after a confidence-boosting course of hypnosis.

Examiner John Benson met him outside and asked him to read the number plate of a car standing 25 yards away, the statutory distance for the driving examination's eye test.

Ries adjusted his spectacles. "406 EUW," he said.

"Sorry, 406 EUM," said Benson. "That concludes the test."

Appeal Funds Budgeted

The coming residential census for the United Appeal of the Community Chest of Greater Victoria, which begins Oct. 18, raises questions concerning the various agencies which benefit from it. Each day for nine days a question and answer will be printed. Here is the last question, No. 8.

Question—Why is the Community Chest known as a deficit financing organization?

Answer—The chest operates on a deficit-financing or budget-balancing principle. In its annual review of each agency's budget, the chest budget committee determines the total amount of money necessary to cover each agency's operating costs for the year. It then estimates the amount which can be raised from all available sources other than the chest—fees, membership dues, government grants, income from legacies and bequests, etc.

The difference between these figures—available revenue and total requirements—is made up from United Appeal funds. (Example: Victorian Order of Nurses annual operating budget for 1965, $84,618; estimated revenue $49,500; chest allocation $35,110.)

Doctor, Please, For Cruise In South Pacific

WASHINGTON (UPI)—It sounds like just what the doctor ordered:

- A long cruise in the South Pacific.
- Enchanted evenings in exotic ports.
- Reasonably light work.
- Pay at the rate of $15,000 a year.

If this sounds attractive to you, get in touch with the National Science Foundation (NSF) right away.

There is a catch, however—to qualify, you have to be a medical doctor.

The NSF desperately needs a doctor to take care of 48 crew members and 36 scientists aboard the Antarctic research ship Eltanin. It has to sign one up by early next month.

Because time is running out, the foundation appealed for help in a memorandum to science writers and editors.

"Perhaps among your readers," the NSF said, "is one who would like to sign up for a cruise or two."

In effect, and with just a touch of panic in its voice, the foundation is asking if there is a doctor in the house and will be please step forward?

Why this last-minute emergency? It's embarrassing, an NSF spokesman conceded. A few years ago the foundation had a list of doctors who might be willing to sail in southern seas from time to time.

Only recently did it come to realize that it had worked through the list and that the doctor pool urgently needed re-filling.

The Eltanin will be sailing in the western Pacific, the Scotia Sea, and the South Pacific between South America and New Zealand, both in the open ocean and on the fringes of the Antarctic ice pack.

Windfall Mine Thorn To Toronto Exchange

By HARRY YOUNG
Business Editor

A catalogue of the events leading up to the disclosure on July 30 that the cores drilled by Windfall Oils and Mines were valueless has been circulated by Howard Graham, president of the Toronto Stock Exchange.

The details are given as part of the TSE president's rebuttal of the finding of the Kelly

Royal Commission into Windfall. This placed the responsibility for the trading of Windfall subsequent to July 6 on the exchange.

'DISSEMINATED'

Mr. Graham says that several times between July 10 and July 30, the TSE had been dissuaded from suspending Windfall by members of the Ontario Securities Commission and the Ontario Minister of Mines.

He claims that the responsibility for keeping Windfall trading during the period rested on the Ontario Securities Commission.

EVEN HINT

"No by-law or regulation of the exchange of any consequence is ever introduced without consultation with and tacit approval of the OEC," said Mr. Graham. "All the Commission had to do was suggest or even hint to the exchange that trading should be suspended and that would have happened."

Mr. Graham however, is not getting wholehearted support for his contention.

WON'T AID IMAGE

In financial circles, the TSE is being severely criticised for not taking action if it was suspicious of a listed stock, irrespective of what the Ontario Securities Commission might say or do.

If the TSE is not willing to provide this protection it is not likely to improve its image with the investing public.

NEW GROUND

While Canadians were celebrating Thanksgiving Day the New York stock exchange plunged its way into new high ground with its senior industrial barometer.

The Dow Jones industrial average of 30 stocks peaked at 42.76 at the close of an active session to beat the old high by nearly three points. As the rally also broke into new high ground the existence of a full market was confirmed.

The gains were not all held in another active session Tuesday but in spite of loss fact that many were celebrating the Columbus Day holiday volume was extremely high at 8,460,000 shares.

Summons Server 'Faces' Summonses

Louis Callan handed Patrick Brown 11 summonses for parking meter violations and got them back in his face, central magistrate's court was told Tuesday.

Brown 639 Yates, pleaded guilty to assaulting Callan, the city summons server, on Oct. 2. Magistrate William Ostler fined him $75.

'COUSIN'

Brown at first claimed he was his cousin but a check proved his true identity, Callan said.

When handed the summonses, Brown threw them in his face, Callan said.

NOT HAPPY

"There was no damage to my face," Callan said.

Magistrate Ostler observed, "The lot of a summons server is not a happy one."

James Grant was seen weaving over the double solid centre line on Government Street Saturday.

Police chased him, and Grant sideswiped a power pole on Bay Street before stopping.

HIT POLE

Grant, 4074 Carey, pleaded guilty to impaired driving and was fined $300 and his licence was suspended.

Grant said he heard the police siren and, as he looked into the rear vision mirror while pulling to the side of the street, he hit the pole.

Clarence Billett, 404 Sherk, pleaded not guilty to obstructing a police officer. The charge arose from an incident in a cafe Saturday morning.

Billett was remanded to Monday.

Eighteen-year-old Eugene Brabant and three of his friends attracted police attention early Sunday morning by shouting on Yates Street.

Brabant pleaded guilty to creating a public disturbance and was fined $50. The other three were remanded to Friday.

REFUSED

Constable Gary Galbraith said Brabant and three others were told to settle down.

500 Workers Picket Site

HOYLE, Ont. (CP) — About 500 construction workers at the Texas Gulf ore processing plant here did not report for work and picketed the site. The workers, members of Local 786 of the International Association of Bridge, Structural Steel and Ornamental Workers Union (IABSO) walked off the job after a breakdown in negotiations for a new contract.

"The accused refused to use abusive language," Constable Galbraith said.

Sidney Roberge took a corner wide on Oct. 8 on the Trans-Canada Highway while travelling towards Nanaimo and finished up in the path of an oncoming vehicle.

He pleaded guilty to impaired driving and was remanded to Oct. 25.

There was $1,000 damage to the other car and $500 to Roberge's. His breathalyzer reading was .19.

George Haines, 3011 Scott, pleaded guilty to impaired control and was fined $300 and his licence was suspended.

When questioned at 2:35 a.m. on Sunday, Haines admitted breathalyzer reading was .22.

Joseph Marsh of Port Renfrew was found slumped over the wheel of his car on Monday with the motor running.

A breathalyzer recording of .18 was made and Marsh pleaded guilty to impaired driving. He was fined $300 and his licence was suspended.

Frances Cleghorn of Prince

George stopped her car 1 1/2 miles from where she struck a parked car, and then only because a wheel fell off.

She hit the correctly parked car on Wharf Street at 11 p.m.

Saturday and her car was found about two hours later. She was fined $300 for failing to remain at the scene of an accident, and her licence was suspended.

Formal notification has been given Greater Victoria municipalities of the formation of the Regional District of the Capital of British Columbia. The notice was sent out Friday from the office of Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell, and received in City Hall in Victoria Tuesday. This means that the 60-day period, in which the municipalities will have to make up their minds about mini-metro, has begun. They may choose to participate in all four functions planned for the district, sewer survey, regional parks, regulation and sale of fireworks and hospitals, or they may opt out of any one. Mayor Wilson and the reeves of Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt have indicated that they will probably seek to have the matter put to the vote in their municipalities. TAKEOVER POSSIBLE In the absence of such an indication, the regional board will automatically takeover the functions in the component municipalities which include, along with those of Greater Victoria and Saanich, Central Saanich, North Saanich and Sidney, and the electoral district of Colwood, Langford, Metchosin, Sooke and View Royal.

Tactics Questioned

Defence counsel Kenneth Cox alleged in central magistrate's court Tuesday that Saanich police tricked his client during an interview. His client, Barry Mills, was found guilty of failing to remain at the scene of an accident which occurred early in the morning of Aug. 15.

Mr. Cox maintained that the police asked Mills if he had been drinking when they knew the answer. "This changed the whole idea of the interview," he said. "No longer was it a voluntary statement. The whole thing was conducted under a feeling of duress."

However, Mills, of 3127 Metchosin, was found guilty by Magistrate William Ostler and fined $100. His licence was suspended for four months, but Mills will be allowed to drive between 7:30 a.m. and 5 p.m. Monday to Friday.

Rain Welcome After Cyprus Heat

While many Victorians groused about Tuesday's rain, members of the Queen's Own Rifles find it a slight change after returning from peacekeeping duties in Cyprus.

In fact the regiment's commanding officer, Lt.-Col. C. L. Kirby, found it a pleasant change after about three straight months of sunshine and heat haze that was the summer in Cyprus. "This sort of a feeling will probably last about four or five days," he said.

END DUTY
Col. Kirby was among the final 88 officers and men to arrive here Sunday after a six-month stint of duty.

Rain broke in Cyprus the day before he was about to leave, and because of the rocky nature of the terrain a minor torrent flowed in the front door of the commanding officer's house and straight out the back door.

During the regiment's stay,

Air Terminal Announced

VANCOUVER (UPI) — Construction of a new $17,800,000 airport terminal will begin in Vancouver next April 1, Resources Minister Arthur Laing has announced.

He said the contract, although $4,000,000 higher than original estimates, was awarded the Foundation of Canada Engineering Corp., Ltd. The new terminal, slated for completion by early 1968, will have two levels — one for arrivals, and one for departures.

How a dour Scot rebelled against tradition and started to make gin instead of you-know-what.

In 1769, a dour old Scot named Alexander Gordon packed up his money and came to London. Where he built himself a gin distillery, of all things.

His clan was outraged. And vowed never to allow Gordon to set foot in the highlands again.

And the English laughed at him. Until they tasted his gin. Whereupon, they smiled with pleasure.

And then, not only did the English adopt Gordon as one of their own, but swore he was the greatest English gin maker of all time.

Today, Gordon's is the best-selling gin in the world. Because Gordon's descendants are as canny as he was:

Nobody but Gordon's makes Gordon's Gin, no matter where it's made—and it's made in 9 different countries, including Canada.

The exact and original formula is never varied for any reason whatsoever. Ever.

And nobody but Gordon's can approve the finished gin for bottling.

Once bottled, it needs one more approval. Yours.

Rare Courage

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — A Port Arthur couple is safe at home with a story of shipwreck in Lake Superior.

George Lawrence and his wife Connie were rescued by RCMP at 7:30 a.m. Tuesday at Sawyers Bay where their 27-foot sailboat, the Naniki, had broken up nearly eight hours earlier.

They had drifted for hours on their overturned craft, huddled under a sail they used as a tent.

"I want to say something about my wife's courage," said Mr. Lawrence. "It was terrific. She's got more guts than any person I know. She never lost heart at any time."

The Lawrences set out at 11 a.m. Monday from nearby Perry's Dock. At first sailing was excellent. Later, though, seas built up tremendously.

OVERTURNED HULL
High winds overturned the Naniki and also snapped one of its two sails. The craft turned upside down but the Lawrences

At one time, Mr. Lawrence tied a rope around his waist, plunged into the water and retrieved a sail which he made into a tent.

DRIFT NINE HOURS

The couple drifted from 3 p.m. to midnight, protected to some extent by the sail tent.

About midnight the sailboat broke up at Sawyers Bay and the Lawrences stumbled ashore. They found an old cabin where they got a fire going, dried clothes and slept until morning when the RCMP boat found them.

Both suffered from exposure but did not require hospital treatment.

"Scalp tension, a sign of the times, is one cause of your hair loss," says trichologist M. D. Harrison to balding man. Harrison directs the famous Harrison Hair and Scalp Specialists, whose main office is in Vancouver. He is sending a specialist here to advise men how to correct hair troubles by home treatment.

How to save and improve your hair demonstrated by expert here Thursday and Friday

New home treatment methods for preventing baldness—and growing thicker hair—will be demonstrated in Victoria this Thursday and Friday, October 14 and 15.

This news was released here today by M. D. Harrison, internationally famous director of Harrison Hair and Scalp Specialists.

In his announcement, Harrison named staff trichologist J. Arthur to conduct the Victoria clinic. Arthur will personally examine hair-worried men and women from 1 p.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday and Friday at the Hotel Sussex.

Examine You Free

"I want to make it clear that you incur no charge or obligation by seeing Mr. Arthur," director Harrison said.

"Your only obligation is to yourself—to free your mind of worries about hair loss, dandruff, itching, or other scalp disorders, by learning how to take care of your hair. If your trouble is beyond the scope of Harrison Home treatment, we will frankly tell you so. But less than five per cent of the people we examine are 'hopeless'."

Offers No Cure-All

Harrison emphasized that his new home treatment is neither "mail-order" nor "cure-all."

"We always make a personal examination before suggesting any treatment," he pointed out. "There is no one cure-all that will correct every one of the 18 scalp disorders that cause most baldness."

Harrison said that sometimes your treatment must be changed after a few weeks to get best results. "For this reason, you mail regular reports of your hair progress to the Harrison headquarters in Vancouver."

"Also, your scalp condition is checked personally by a Harrison trichologist at regular intervals."

Who Can Be Helped?

Will this new treatment cure baldness? "No," said Harrison sincerely. "We can not help men who are slick-bald after years of gradual hair loss. But where your scalp still grows hair, we can at least save and improve what you have. Usually, we can grow more hair even where you have only 'fuzz' now."

The important thing is: Don't wait until it's too late!

Best evidence of the success of Harrison treatment is the phenomenal growth of the organization behind it. Harrison and his affiliates maintain treatment clinics in Canada, the U.S. and Mexico. And their staff trichologists regularly do extension work in more than 100 other cities.

Leonard A. Floyd before and after scalp treatment. Untreated photographs made four months apart.

Satisfy 95%

"Our biggest problem is not in doing what we claim to do," declared Harrison. "We satisfy more than 95 per cent of our clients, and have records to prove it."

"But to overcome the average man's initial skepticism is sometimes difficult. He's usually quite desperate—and bald—by the time he nerves himself to see a Harrison trichologist. He's 'tried everything.' So he starts consoling himself with one of the old superstitions about hair: 'That baldness is hereditary; that men naturally lose their hair as they get along in years; that nothing can be done to stop hair loss—and a lot of other notions that we know are not true today.'"

"That baldness is hereditary; that men naturally lose their hair as they get along in years; that nothing can be done to stop hair loss—and a lot of other notions that we know are not true today."

Free Scalp Examination

See Mr. Arthur in person. Learn how baldness can be stopped, and new hair grown on your scalp. The new Harrison method permits you to actually stop your baldness and regrow hair in the privacy of your own home.

For a free examination and discussion of your hair problems ask the desk clerk at the Hotel Sussex Thursday and Friday between 1 p.m. and 8 p.m. for Mr. Arthur's suite number.

You don't need an appointment. You won't be embarrassed or obligated in any way. Examinations are given in private.

Desperate Twins Call on Mudcat

From AP Reports

Sandy Koufax, who pitched the four-hitter that beat Minnesota Twins 7-0 in Monday's fifth game, was a little surprised at the Twins.

"I didn't think I was pitching that strong a game," he said. "I was surprised they didn't get more hits. I was behind the hitters too much, and I was awfully tired after the seventh."

GREAT SUPPORT

Koufax struck out 10 and walked but one man, getting great support from an infield that turned in two double plays. Maury Wills tied a series record with four hits, including two doubles. Willie Davis had three of the four Dodger stolen bases. The first time a man had had three in a game since Honus Wagner did it for the Pirates in 1908.

Los Angeles Dodgers matched Minnesota power for power in winning Sunday's fourth game, 7-2. The difference was Don Drysdale.

Drysdale, beaten in the opening game by Mudcat Grant, threw a five-hitter. Harmon Killebrew and Tony Oliva got to him for home runs, but was Parker and Lou Johnson matched them for the Dodgers.

Six of the Dodgers' eight singles off Grant were of the infield variety, but they took extra bases almost at will. The Twins, however, almost shoddy fielding by the Twins. Drysdale struck out 11 and walked two. Both passes were issued to Killebrew.

Hebenton Here Too

Add Litzenberger To Leaf Lineup

Andy Hebenton is here, and with any luck at all Eddie Litzenberger will arrive in time to join Victoria Maple Leafs in their Western Hockey League opener Friday night in Vancouver.

Acquisition of Hebenton, an all-star right-winger with Portland Buckaroos last season, was announced yesterday and general manager Buck Houle got the word on Litzenberger last night.

"Punch Imlach told me he'd try and have Litzenberger here Thursday so he'd be ready to play for us Friday," Houle said. "Litzenberger will be the replacement promised us when we lost Larry Keenan."

"I imagine that when Keenan recovers from his operation and rejoins us, Litzenberger will go back east. But that's just speculation on my part."

Leafs are also hoping to get a rookie named Demarals, a junior from Calgary who has been attending the Toronto camp.

Houle is hoping Litzenberger will be here for the weekend, as Leafs open with three games in three nights and need all the help they can get.

They play the Canucks in Vancouver Friday and again in their home opener Saturday.

then travel to Seattle to meet the Totems Sunday.

In Hebenton, the Leafs are getting hockey's all-time iron man, a player who hasn't missed a game in more than 13 seasons. Sent down from Boston to Portland last year, he scored 34 goals and assisted 40, as the Hebenton-Gerry Goyer-Tom McVie line became the WHL's highest-scoring unit.

Litzenberger who spent 11 seasons in the NHL with Montreal, Chicago, Detroit and Toronto, spent last season with Toronto's powerful Rochester club in the American League.

Leafs, knowing that they face a three-game, three-day grind to start the season, scheduled three exhibition games last weekend and came out with two wins and a loss.

After beating Seattle, 6-2, here Saturday, they went to Spokane Sunday and lost, 6-5, as Colin Kilburn, one-time Victoria coach who now plays and runs the Jets, scored the winning goal in the third period.

Steve Witluk scored twice and Bob Barlow, Milan Marcetta and Ed Ehrenverth once.

Leafs then whipped Trill Smoke Easterns, 8-3, Monday, playing what Houle described as sound two-way hockey.

Victoria scores in that one were Barlow, Marcetta and Lou Jankowski, with two each, Mike Labadie and John Sleaver.

Hunter Killed Four Injured

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

One man is dead and four others are in hospitals as a result of weekend hunting accidents in British Columbia.

Saturday marked the start of Hunter Safety Week in B.C. The fatality occurred Sunday, about 60 miles east of Prince George.

RCMP said William C. Serwenka, 38, of Burnaby died five hours after being shot in the back by a Vancouver companion who apparently mistook him for a moose.

At Cranbrook, a Nelson hunter was in good condition in hospital after undergoing surgery for a bullet wound in the back.

RCMP said Benjamin Anderson was shot while hunting in the Swan Lake area, about 40 miles southeast of Invermere. They believe a bullet fired by another hunter ricocheted and hit Anderson.

AT THE 19th With Harry Young

Six down after playing the first 11 holes, Ricky Kent made an amazing comeback against Laurie Kerr Sunday to win the Royal Colwood club championship, 2 and 1.

It was a second win in three years for the 19-year-old Kent who wore down the older Kerr with a barrage of prodigiously long drives and some hot putting streaks that completely turned the pattern of a match that looked like being a runaway victory for the defending champion.

Weighing only about 120 pounds, the lithe Kent was striking the ball near to 300 yards and outdistancing Kerr at practically every hole.

Kerr got off to a fine start and reached the turn in the first round in 33 to be four up. He won the 10th and 11th holes in pairs to become six up.

Kent won two back before the end of the first round, but with a four hole deficit to a seasoned campaigner the outlook was still a grim one for the challenger.

Kent however was merely warming up to his task. He won three of the first four holes of the second round to chop his deficit to one hole. Kerr came back again taking the 5th and 6th holes to restore a three up lead, and the defender held on grimly for the next four holes to maintain that lead.

Then Kent made his dramatic run. He won the 11th, 12th, 14th, 16th and 17th holes, taking the lead for the first time at the 16th and finishing it at the next where Kerr three putted.

Offhand I cannot recall a championship final in which a player who has been six down went on to take the title. I know it must have happened somewhere, but I cannot remember it.

Kent in the past has not always been seen at his best in match play because he seems to be a slow starter, and too often gives his opponent an early jump. On this occasion however the double round gave him time to settle down and retrieve what looked a hopeless situation.

Art Donaldson reinstated this year as an amateur, won his way to the championship of the Gorge Vale club in a thrilling extra hole contest with Al McLeod.

Donaldson was three up at the end of the first eighteen but he lost it all in the second round and the match might have gone either way right to the last hole, where Donaldson lost a winning chance by taking three putts.

At the extra hole both players played good seconds to the green. McLeod failed to hole from 12 feet and then Donaldson sank one of about three feet to take the title.

Dick Munn and Fred Worthington of Cedar Hill retained the city open buttons Sunday when they beat Ardmore's left-handed team of Emil Beauchemin and Harold Jacobsen at Victoria by 3 and 2.

The next match will be played at Colwood Oct. 24 when the host club will supply the opposition. Colwood's team is not yet decided but it will probably include one or more of their younger stars—new champion Ricky Kent and Urban Allen.

First of the district winter medal rounds will be played at Uplands Sunday. Open to players with a handicap of 7 or less, it looks like attracting a big entry.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Munro won the mixed foursome competition at Victoria Golf Club Monday to take the Gibson Cup.

Peter McIntyre and John Sturdy of Victoria took the district senior buttons from Larry McCooney and Roy Johnson of Royal Colwood at the 15th hole at Gorge Vale. The new holders now meet Bert Nex and Hugh Smith of Uplands on Sunday.

Thomas Der scored his first hole in one at the 14th hole at Gorge Vale Sunday.

Babe Ruth Decision In Month

Babe Ruth baseball league executive left Victoria Saturday after two days of discussions with local officials concerning Victoria's bid to hold the 1967 Babe Ruth world series.

Richard Case, Jerry Ganti and Alfred Stanton talked to mayor R. B. Wilson and provincial secretary L. Wallace. Mayor Wilson assured them that Victoria would be able to provide a suitable park by 1967.

A decision on the Victoria bid will be made in late November. The guarantee required is $25,000.

Fast Fifth Quite Okay For G. Royal

TORONTO (CP) — George Royal's owner, Bob Hall of Vancouver, isn't disappointed over his horse's fifth-place finish in the $15,000-added Jockey Club Stakes Monday at Woodbine race track.

George Royal, winner of the $100,000-added San Juan Capistrano handicap at Santa Anita, Calif., early last March and one of two Canadian-trained horses to win a race worth that much, fell behind in the field of eight over the 1 1/4-mile turf course from the outset.

But jockey Johnny Longden got the horse in high gear at the head of the stretch and George Royal closed quickly over the last eighth mile to just miss finishing fourth.

Favored Quick Pitch, owned by Fortune Ryan of New York City and the favorite in the race, won and paid $5.70, $3.40 and $2.60.

George Royal, who has now won 15 of 31 races, has yet to win in three starts in Eastern Canada.

Hall said he will not race George Royal until the Canadian Championship, a turf event here over 1 1/4 miles, Oct. 23.

Farmers Favored For First Place

win, Oak Bay takes the crown on the basis of a better point record in games against Nanaimo.

Sudden-death semi-finals are set for Oct. 24, with first team playing third and second meeting fourth.

Jim Crawford scored one touchdown, intercepted two passes and fell on a fumble Sunday to lead Farmers to a 27-16 victory over James Bay Mustangs at Camarvon Park.

Redmen got three touchdowns from Lynn Irving and Dan Thakchuk added two more in beating Victoria Hornets 31-26 at Macdonald Park.

Cowichan won its first game of the season, beating the Raiders 13-0 at Campbell River.

Winning Play Questioned

Lions Protest Loss To Edmonton Eskis

B.C. Lions are screaming to high heaven over officiating in Saturday's Canadian Football League loss to Edmonton Eskimos.

High heaven in this case means CFL commissioner G. Sydney Halter. Never in recent memory has a protested game been replayed.

And a relay is what the they may need help to make the playoffs.

Coach Dave Skrien of the Lions said films of Saturday's game show that the touchdown play by Jim Thomas that gave the Eskis a 14-12 win was illegal for two reasons: a downfield block was thrown by an ineligible back (Billy Martin) and the block was thrown following a forward pass.

A convert attempt missed by Riders' Jack Abernethy was the difference Monday in Regina as the Bombers came from behind with two fourth-quarter touchdowns.

GOOD TIMING

Art Perkins, Farrell Funston and Dave Raimy got the Bombers touchdowns and Norm Winston, who failed on all three convert attempts, kicked a 14-yard field goal. Hugh Campbell (2) and George Reed scored the Riders touchdowns and Abernethy converted two.

In Montreal, Jerry Keeling,

Lovell Coleman and Bobby Taylor scored Calgary touchdowns and Larry Robinson kicked three field goals and three converts. Terry Evanschen got one Alouette touchdown and the others were scored by Jackie Simpson and Bob Minihane after Calgary fumbles inside the Stampeder five-yard line.

CATS IN FRONT

In Hamilton, the Tiger-Cats moved two points in front in the Eastern Conference with a 25-23 victory over second-place Ottawa, getting the win on a last-quarter safety touch.

Tommy Grant and Willie Betha scored the touchdowns and Don Sutherland kicked both converts and three field goals. Rick Black and Ron Stewart scored the Ottawa touchdowns, while Moe Racine matched Sutherland with two converts and three field goals.

Foster Unhurt

WENTZVILLE, Md. (AP)—Billy Foster of Victoria, B.C., overturned his car on the last lap of the $12,500 U.S. auto club 200-mile road race Sunday, but escaped unhurt and was awarded eighth place.

Only seven of 21 starters actually crossed the finish line. Don White, of Keokuk, Iowa, took the lead in the 48th lap and kept until he collected $1,950 for his first-place finish.

Dodges Capture Among Wards

Bobo Romps in Royal Jubilee

Royal Jubilee Hospital is wondering how to get rid of Bobo, an adventurous squirrel monkey who moved in Sunday.

But first they've got to find him.

Since being hauled against his will into the hospital Sunday afternoon—and then escaping—Bobo has led an SPCA inspector several fruitless chases through the depths of the building.

At 6:30 p.m. Sunday, Stanley Reddeman of 1225 Rudin Street was told by neighborhood children that there was a monkey in his basement.

Sure enough, there was. He captured the animal by throwing a coat over it, at the cost of a bitten right index finger. Mr. Reddeman decided it had better be treated at Royal Jubilee, and he hauled the mysterious monkey along in case it proved to be rabid.

The monkey got loose and bounded out a window of the emergency ward and onto the fire escape.

SPCA inspector Oscar Vennberg made the first of three trips to the hospital in pursuit. Then he played a hunch and contacted Albert J. Smith, 1124 Yates, who turned out to be the owner.

Bobo is a family pet and an occasional escaper, said Mr. Smith.

Mr. Vennberg went back again when Bobo was spotted on the pipes of a service tunnel.

"He had a whale of a time," said Mr. Vennberg later. "He was over, under and on top of the pipes. Then he just disappeared."

Monday Bobo was seen again briefly under the medical records building.

A new attempt to recapture Bobo is to be made today, with an SPCA trap baited with candy and lettuce.

As anxious as anyone that Bobo go home is hospital administrator George Masters. "I've got enough trouble without getting into monkey business," he said Monday.

Ten Per Cent

Teachers Make Salary Demand

By BILL STAVDAL

Teachers of the Greater Victoria School District Tuesday night asked salary increases averaging 10 per cent.

In the first formal negotiations on the 1966 agreement for District 61, teachers' spokesmen also requested salary increases for supervisors.

NO REBUTTAL

No rebuttal was made by the board or its spokesman, Joe Miyazawa of Vancouver, labor relations officer of the B.C. School Trustees' Association. A reply is expected at the next meeting, Oct. 19.

District 61's teacher salary budget for 1965 is $7,000,000, but trustees pointed out that the salary increase request could easily amount to more than $700,000.

THREE MILLS

As well as the increase, the submission asks that a teacher rise to his maximum salary in 12 years instead of the present 14 years.

One mill in the school district is currently worth $256,000, so that if the salary budget for the 1,023 teachers were to rise by 10 per cent it would mean a property tax increase of nearly three mills.

EXTENSIVE DATA

Teachers' spokesman Tuesday was Gerald Guest, accompanied by four observers. He presented extensive statistics data in support of the salary request.

Analysis of the information will occupy Mr. Miyazawa and school board officials during the next week.

JUSTIFIABLE

Mr. Guest called the proposed salary increases "a justifiable request for a fair share of the community's prosperity and the economy's buoyancy."

Mr. Miyazawa at one point said: "We would like to come to an equitable and reasonable settlement with you people."

The amicable meeting did not include any hard bargaining.

Champion Muirhead in altered suit

Expert Skier Trains Here

Canada's top water skier arrived here Monday from Winnipeg to ease his challenges in Shawmag Lake.

Brian Muirhead, 20, is here to put in two weeks of intensive training and polishing in preparation for the world water skiing championships to be held in Brisbane, Australia, Oct. 22 to 30.

NEXT WEEK

He arrived a week ahead of the rest of the Canadian team. The others, three men and two women, will start training at Shawmag next week.

Brian is the current Canadian champion and holds a Canadian record in his specialty, the slalom. In Australia he will compete in the slalom, jumping and trick skiing.

With the rest of the team, he will compete in a polishing-up tournament at Shawmag Sunday against skiers from B.C. and the Pacific northwest.

Brian jumped the gun coming here because water temperatures in the Whiteshell resort area near Winnipeg where he trains have already dipped as low as 40 degrees.

Even a full scuba wet suit wasn't enough to keep out the cold there. But Shawmag is staying around the 60-degree mark, so he was able to cut the arms and legs off the suit to give him more freedom of movement.

Big Coin Theft Yields $8,000 Over Weekend

Thieves walked away with nearly $8,000 worth of coins over the long weekend.

Police say entry to the Captain's Antiques of 1014 Cook was gained by forcing a window on the west side of the building.

Reported stolen were five sets of silver dollars dating from 1935 up to and including 1965.

worth a total collectors' value of $5,000.

Also taken were two boxes of silver dollars of mixed dates valued at $1,000 and a set of American one-cent Lincoln coins dating from 1908 to 1940 valued at $750.

IN BOOKS

A set of Canadian 10-cent pieces dating from 1858 to the present and worth $1,000 was also reported stolen.

Police say all coins were in coin books and that while several other books were also in the locked cabinet, only the valuable ones were taken.

NOT INSURED

Police suspect the thieves knew where the key for the cabinet was located.

A collection of gold coins worth $10,000 was not taken as it was hidden elsewhere, police said.

The coins were not insured.

Justice Before Dentist

Justice comes before dental care for city Magistrate William Oeller.

He adjourned court Tuesday afternoon so he could phone and cancel a dental appointment he had for that afternoon.

He turned down an offer from Saanich prosecutor Kenneth Murphy to adjourn the case while he kept the appointment.

"I can't ask you to stop a case so I can keep a dental appointment," he said.

"I have had to cancel them in the past."

Court recessed for 10 minutes.

Vandals Hit Park Trees

Vandals uprooted small trees and shrubs in a rampage through Beacon Hill Park nursery Sunday night. Plants and flowers were strewn about.

Chief Gregory cuts ribbon at new station

Crowd Invades Police Station

While heavy rain drenched the dais which had been set up outside the police station for the official opening Tuesday, a hundred or so people jammed into the Fogard Street headquarters—see Chief J. F. Gregory snip the ribbon.

After the ceremony the public was taken on a tour of the renovated building by members of the police force, and given an opportunity to see the $350,000 rehabilitation job which is all part of the Centennial Square development.

COURTESY, EFFICIENCY
Members of the police force are following the principles of courtesy and efficiency in their dealings with the public, said Chief Gregory. They have felt for years that they have been ignored, particularly as they were forced to operate out of a building that was depressing and even unsanitary but that is all changed now.

S. D. Hendra, speaking for Farmer Construction Company, which did the renovation, recalled, as did architect Donald Wagg, that the cost was considerably above City Hall estimates.

PARING, ADJUSTING
"However, it was all settled amicably by paring and adjusting, with no more than the usual loss of blood on both sides," Mr. Hendra said.

Chief Gregory presented Mr. Hendra with what he said was a key to the new cell block. He said it had been found on the construction site by one of the workers.

Hendra and 'key'

He handed Mr. Hendra a hacksaw blade with a ribbon tied to it.

The chief paid tribute to city council, members of the police commission and the members of his own force, including Deputy Chief Harry Mercer, for their help.

SAFETY AWARD

Opening remarks were made by Mayor Wilson who introduced members of the police commission and Ald. A. W. Toone, chairman of the council centennial committee.

Presentation of a Canadian Highway Safety Association award was made to Mayor Wilson by the police chief.

It represented, he said, the fourth-best effort of any city in Canada in the reduction of fatal accidents during the past year.

Children's Fund Dawson Topic

Ray Dawson, Save the Children Fund administrator for Korea, will give a talk open to all, at 2:30 p.m. today in Centennial United Church Hall. Tea will be served by the United Church Women of Centennial.

Mr. Dawson is a Korean child, who sponsor a Korean child.

Mr. Dawson will talk about his work in Korea and Victoria's part in it. Halloween-week collections will be made again this year.

Boys' Paradise? Pool Halls Open

By JIM BRAHAN

Sidney became a boys' paradise Monday night—the village council lifted the age limits for pool players.

The only restrictions placed on Sidney pool players by council is that any player under 14 must be accompanied by an adult.

The lowering of the age limit will be on a trial basis for six months.

Commissioner Douglas Taylor made the motion to lift the restrictions and said the principle of the game is good.

Commissioner L. R. Christian agreed the game should be thought of in a similar light to bowling.

"It is purely a game of skill," he said. "The stigma does not come from the game itself, but from the sidelines."

He said it was up to the management to provide a proper environment to keep the game on the proper level.

Commissioner Andries Boas pointed out the necessity for a six months trial for the new lowering of the restrictions.

Village chairman J. H. Larocque was the only one opposed to the motion.

Live Firing At Weekend

Live firing exercises will be carried out by the Westminster Regiment from Mary Hill and Albert Head Camp between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m. Saturday and Sunday.

A 3.5 rocket launcher will be fired from Mary Hill and a 60-mm. mortar will be used at Albert Head.

Flag Issue Group

The National People's Party, formed to abolish the Maple Leaf flag and re-assert the supremacy of the Red Ensign, will not, after all, run any candidates in this election.

Victoria was to have been one of six or seven ridings in the province with an NPP candidate.

"We unanimously agreed we would support Conservative candidates in our own areas," said the party founder, George Burnham of Abbotsford.

"My approach to this election is non-partisan and non-political," says Frank Hunter, Social Credit candidate for Victoria, who was guest to well-wishers who dropped in to see him Tuesday at campaign headquarters established in the old "Y" building at Blanshard and View.

A public meeting has been arranged for Mr. Hunter for 8 p.m. Monday in Oak Bay Junior High School auditorium. With him on the platform will be Lands and Forests Minister Williston.

Although George Chatterton, party omitted my name in error

Election Notebook By Ian Arrol

maintains a home, car and phone in the Greater Victoria area as well as in Ottawa, where he was a member of Parliament for Esquimalt-Saanich for the past 4½ years, he doesn't have a Vancouver Island existence as far as the phone book is concerned.

"This year the telephone company omitted my name in error from the directory. Since returning from Ottawa I've had to place advertisements in the papers to list my phone number."

Mr. Chatterton says he is going to send the bills to the telephone company.

His number, incidentally, is GR 9-2509.

The former national leader of the NDP, M. J. Coldwell, may be in Victoria next Tuesday to speak to the Parliamentary Forum group at the University of Victoria.

"His health does not allow active campaigning," said Clive Lytle, provincial campaign manager, from Vancouver Tuesday, "but I hope to get confirmation soon that Mr. Coldwell can make this 'one only' appearance on the island."

Not Fielding Candidates

Mr. Coldwell will be in Vancouver Saturday to attend a banquet for the present leader, T. C. Douglas, honoring the 30th anniversary of Mr. Douglas' entry into politics.

Name not on the voters' list? Name on, but misspelled? What to do, and when, for this and similar problems can be learned through a call to the office of the returning officer. That's 386-2291 for Victoria constituents and 477-1891 for those in Esquimalt-Saanich federal riding.

Job-Hunting Students Show Their Versatility

Versatility is the word at the University of Victoria this year and job-hunting students are putting it to good use.

Part-time employment is being sought by butchers, bus drivers and bulldozer operators, by salesmen and survey workers, by teachers and timber cruisers—and they're all university students.

SMALL INCOME

During September, 200 men and 120 women students requested information about job opportunities, George Bevis said Tuesday.

The manager of the Victoria office of the National Employment Service said he has found that hundreds of students need a small but regular income to finance current expenses such as clothing and transportation.

VARIETY

And that is where their skills come in handy.

In addition to those mentioned, he says he finds men with experience as electronics technicians, auto body repairmen, cooks, waiters, credit reporters, accounting clerks and glaziers.

There are also young men with laboring experience, and many willing and eager to tackle anything.

Women students report experience as waitresses, hostesses, receptionists, sales clerks, typists, stenographers, bank tellers, ballet teachers, nurses' aides, fashion models, library assistants, chambermaids and playground supervisors.

Availability of the students is governed by their course timetables, but most can offer a morning or afternoon at regular intervals during the week as well as evenings and weekends.

Health, Diet

Luxury Resort At $600 a Week

By MARGARET RICHARDS

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — I've just spent a weekend living in a greenhouse — a greenhouse for women who want to be pampered like a prize orchid. It was quite an experience. The Neiman-Marcus greenhouse, heralded as America's newest and possibly its most luxurious beauty and health resort, takes wilted women and spruces them up with reducing diets, massages, exercise, shampoos and make-up lessons. It's all done in a luxuriously improbable setting in an improbable locale. To the average woman, the prices are also improbable.

The setting here, encompassing an area of 52,600 square feet or, about 1,400 square feet for each of its 36 guests, is a delightful mixture of Mediterranean grace and New Orleans-flavored southern charm. The locale is a largely industrial area between Dallas and Fort Worth.

The price is $600 a week, but the woman who stays on for two weeks get a bargain: It costs her only $1,100.

The greenhouse, an enterprise backed by the industry-conscious Great Southwest Corp., the famed department store, Neiman-Marcus, and the high fashion cosmetic house, Charles of the Ritz, opened for business Sept. 15. It's already heavily booked through November, but Mrs. Mollie Porter Cullum, director of the new spa, says she's not turning away anybody yet.

"There are always some cancellations," she explains. Advance listings have come from a dozen states.

I submitted to the treatment along with a group of magazine and news women. We found that every hour of the day, from breakfast in bed to special evening entertainment, is planned individually to suit each woman.

I began with a look at the sauna room — from an open door. I moved hastily down the hall to the ministrations of a masseuse. She said she had learned her trade on luxury liners plying the Atlantic. It was, evidently, a good school.

At a comfortable pace there followed a facial, administered by a woman with deft touch and a gift for silence, a session of rhythmic exercises designed to improve both posture and figure and more exercises undertaken under water—in a marble pool.

To round things off, we sat in a specially designed classroom and listened to a beauty course on the tricks of make-up, color selection and application. Then, wearing leotards and enveloped in huge, terry cloth robes, we lounged by the pool in a "get-away-from-it-all" mood. Not once did I hear mention of such face wrinklers as Viet Nam, Kashmir or Peking. Luncheon, and this is where I began to have trouble, was a delight to the eye and to the palate. It was also an affront to a hungry stomach.

Diced tropical fruits were piled in a hollowed-out half of a pineapple garnished with a single yellow rosebud stuck in the pineapple's green stem. Served with the fruit were a paper-thin slice of specially prepared melba toast and a cup of tea—no sugar.

As soon as I could decently sneak away, I went out and bought a hamburger.

Those partaking of the greenhouse's basic diet get about 850 calories a day, but special provision is made for those guests who want to gain rather than lose. It could produce some friction. Dinner table segregation of the plump and the thin is planned.

Miss Helen Corbitt, director of Neiman-Marcus restaurants, supervises all meals. She believes that food which is pretty to look at tends to satisfy the appetite better than its calories might warrant. So she constantly strives for the beautiful, the dramatic, the interesting in food service.

That goal might explain potassium broth, a delicacy offered at 10:30 a.m. It's a brew of green beans, squash, tomatoes tastes like bouillon. To further guard against monotony — the bane of dieters — Miss Corbitt rotates three different china services.

The greenhouse basic menu is designed to produce a weight loss of several pounds per week. Miss Corbitt says a dry-run of the menu produced an average loss of three pounds in two days.

I don't know about that. I gained two pounds. The hamburgers, no doubt.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Gordon Riches of 3399 Glasgow Avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Roberta Lee, to Mr. William George Peter Bridgewood, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Bridgewood of 3236 Seaton Road. The marriage will take place in St. Matthias Church on October 23 at 2:30 p.m. Rev. Angus Cameron of Lundavra will officiate.

Quiet Ceremony At Bride's Home

At a quiet ceremony at the George Road home of the bride's parents, Rev. David R. Metzger heard marriage vows of Linda Anne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Yearron, and Brian Robert Boyd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morrison Boyd, Stewart Avenue.

Mr. Yearron gave his daughter in marriage. For the candlelit ceremony she wore a two-piece taffeta dress overlaid with white lace. Her headpiece of white tulle trimmed with gold was set off by a yellow rose, and she carried a crescent bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums.

Miss Sylvia Yearron attended her sister, and wore a white woollen princess line dress complemented by a corsage of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums. She wore a golden feathered headpiece.

Mr. Stephen H. Boyd was best man for the groom. The bride's mother baked and decorated the wedding cake which was cut by the bride and groom at a reception following the double-ring ceremony.

As the couple left later on a wedding trip to Portland and the Washington Coast, the bride wore a three-piece chartreuse ensemble complemented by black patent accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Boyd are now living at 785 Gladia Street.

Pink and White Theme For Wedding Decoration

Arrangements of carnations and chrysanthemums in pink and white tones were at the altar of St. John's Anglican Church when Dr. John Sandys Wunsch heard marriage vows exchanged between Lynda Diane Pearce and Terence Joel Martin.

Kenneth Ansdell was organist during the ceremony uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas F. Pearce, 881 Fullerton Avenue, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. James H. Martin, 700 Grant Road, Sooke. Mr. Pearce gave his daughter in marriage.

The bride's floor-length gown of nylon organza over net and taffeta was styled slightly en train. A wide band of lace encircled the waistline and extended in a panel down the front. The lace-trimmed bodice featured a square neckline, designed in a V at the back, and the hip-line sleeves. Her tiered veil, bordered with lace, misted to her fingertips from a matching headpiece. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and stephanotis.

A gown of deep turquoise chiffon over taffeta, with headpiece of toning ribbon roses and bouquet of pink roses, was the choice of matron of honor Mrs. G. Tufnell. Jewelry was a crystal necklace, gift of the bride.

The only jewelry worn by flower girl Sandra Bradshaw was a silver locket, another gift of the bride. The little girl wore a frock of turquoise taffeta with rose headpiece and carried a basket of pink flowers.

Stanley Westham was best man. Guests were ushered by the groom's brothers, Robert and Allan Martin.

PINK AND WHITE

A pink and white wedding cake, made by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. H. Wilkin-son, and Mrs. W. Crowther, centred the head table at the reception in the Carlton Club.

Robert Pearce proposed the toast to his niece. A three-piece turquoise wool suit, complemented with black accessories and pink rosebud corsage, was the choice of the new Mrs. Martin for travelling on honeymoon to the United States.

The couple is making their home at 830 Fullerton Avenue.

Square Poker Chip Beats 'Better Mousetrap' Idea

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—A square idea. That's what a Dallas grandmother had one night.

But there wasn't anything square about the way Mrs. Nell Moore leaned into her idea—A square shape for poker chips. First there was the patent which she applied for post haste. Then she arranged for production facilities.

And now the square chips which can't roll off the table are threatening to have the widow rolling in riches — a prospect that pleases her immensely.

Mrs. Moore, an avid poker player, said three factories are on a 24-hour schedule turning out the plastic square chips.

Poker is the most popular card game among men. It's number three on the female list of card games.

Sales of chips and the racks for them run into the millions in a year — $32 million.

Mrs. Moore's men at the chip works can turn out up to 400,000 chips a day. "One little machine," she said, "puts out 72 chips every three seconds."

The plucky and perky oldster is at the mid-point in an eight-week nationwide trip to plug her chips.

"Everyone's been looking for the better mouse trap," she said. "What the world needed at least as much was the square poker chip."

"From my observations, I'd guess that that sort of thing happens on an average of six times to players in a typical game."

Mrs. Moore mentioned the idea to her husband. Rather than laugh it off, he said:

"Kid, you might have something."

He started the proceedings to obtain a patent. Some months later he became ill and died.

Mrs. Moore at one point had just eight days to do something about the patent before the time ran out.

She was on a plane returning to Dallas and playing a game of gin rummy with Bill Felix, a Dallas businessman. She told him about her square idea and that she didn't know quite which way to turn.

He became interested, and they refilled for the patent, then formed a corporation and went into production.

Her company is called Square Chip Inc. But Mrs. Moore isn't letting it go at that. To further improve the playing of poker she's writing a booklet—"Poker and the Square Set."

"It will tell women how to improve their poker game," she said. "Most women don't play seriously enough. And they gab too much."

Among the tips: Learn the game, shut up when you deal, bet in turn.

"Most women don't know it," she said, "but men get a kick out of being challenged by a sharp woman poker player."

Couple Motor To California

A floor-length gown of white rose brocade, which she made herself, was worn by Nancy Constance Murtion when she exchanged vows with Denis Michael Genn in St. Luke's Anglican Church.

The gown featured a short jacket with a high round neckline and elbow-length sleeves. A detachable chapel train was fastened at the waistline with a tie bow. Her four-tier butterfly veil misted from a headpiece of two organza roses. She carried a cascade of white chrysanthemums with feathered red carnations and tulle en tone. Her only jewelry was a single strand of pearls and a gold bracelet watch, gifts of the groom.

The church was decorated with chrysanthemums and carnations in red and white tones when Archdeacon C. E. F. Wolff heard vows uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest F. Murtion, 318 Uganda Avenue, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Genn, 3915 Persimmon Drive. Mr. Murtion gave his daughter in marriage.

In floor-length gowns of red peau de soie, made by the bridesmaid, Miss Colleen Datty, were the bride's attendants, Mrs. W. G. Empey, matron of honor, and Miss Datty. Their gowns were topped with jackets of white lace over red peau de soie, with high necklines and elbow-length sleeves. They wore floral headpieces and carried bouquets of white chrysanthemums. Jewelry was crystal droplets, gifts of the bride.

John MacConnachie was best man and guests were ushered to their seats by Robin Griffiths and Colin Quail. Mr. R. B. Edwards proposed the toast to the bride at the reception following in the Colonial Inn, where the bride and groom cut a three-tier wedding cake made by the groom's mother.

Leaving on a honeymoon motor trip to California, the bride wore a turquoise and green wool suit with black and white accessories, and a corsage of white carnations.

Out-of-town guests were Mr. J. Phillips, great-uncle of the bride, and Mr. and Mrs. Seymour of Vancouver, and Mr. and Mrs. John Riegar of Lillooet, B.C.

Woman Runs Against George Hees In Federal Election Campaign

By PETER TWIDALE
OTTAWA (UPI) — Forty-four years after women won the right to vote in a general election, 27 of them — and possibly more before nominations close — are seeking election to the House of Commons Nov. 8.

Six women sat in the 265-seat House when the general election was called four weeks ago — four Liberals, two Conservatives.

This time the Liberals are fielding eight women candidates, Conservatives seven, New Democrats 10 and Social Credit two.

Vancouver has the most women running — with Tory females contesting three ridings and a New Democrat a fourth.

All but five of the 27 candidates nominated thus far are married or have been married. But it's two of the single candidates whose names are mentioned most often in this campaign.

They are one-time WAC Judy LaMarsh, because she's minister of health, and former university professor Pauline Jewett, because she's got one of the toughest Liberal assignments of the campaign.

Miss LaMarsh got into the Commons representing the Ontario riding of Niagara Falls in a 1960 byelection, and is seeking re-election for a third time. In 1963 she more than doubled the number of votes of her closest rival.

Besides "guiding" the Canada pension plan in the Commons the outspoken Miss LaMarsh is known for her anti-smoking crusade. Since the one-time chain smoker quit the habit two years ago, a steady flow of literature leaning on the "hazard" of cigarette smoking has come out of the federal health department.

Miss Jewett was in Ottawa last week making a TV film with Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson to be beamed across the rural Ontario riding of Northumberland.

She is being called the "giant killer" by hopeful Liberals, as she battles toe to toe with Conservative strongman George Hees for Northumberland.

Hees is the former Tory trade minister who broke with leader John Diefenbaker in 1963 over the nuclear issue and came back last month to seek election alongside his former boss.

The brainy (Ph.D.) Miss Jewett took the riding in 1963 after an unsuccessful attempt in the 1962 election. Former pro footballer and ski enthusiast, Hees represented urban Toronto-Broadview from 1950 to 1962.

ANN LANDERS

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a widow who is trying to raise a boy alone. Gerald's father died when the boy was six years old. The boy is now 13 and believe me, Ann, I've had my hands full.

I am active in our church auxiliary and I hold a state office. I must go to meetings every Tuesday night. There are three very nice young girls in the neighborhood I call on to sit with Gerald. The little red-headed girl is 16. The other two girls are 13.

Last night Gerald asked me who I had called to sit with him and I told him "Gracie." (She is one of the 15-year-olds.) He said, "I'd rather have the red-head."

This made me stop and think about something that never crossed my mind before. Please read between the lines and tell me your ideas on the subject—

CONCERNED MOTHER
Dear Mother: When a boy is old enough to ask for a red-headed baby sister, he is old enough to stay home alone.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm in my third year of college and I'm going with a girl who is in her second year. I drive my car every day and take four passengers regularly. Dorothy is one of my steady riders.

We were pals when she started to ride with me almost two years ago and I charged her the same as I charged the others. In the last six months we have fallen in love and plan to be married.

Last night Dorothy told me her parents think it is awfully cheap of me to charge her to ride in my car. They felt it was O.K. at the beginning, but now that we are almost engaged they don't think I should collect from her.

We both work part-time and make the same wages. I feel she should pay because then I can take her to better places.

Apple Pie Topper

Come October and seasonal-topped apple pies are sure to be on the menu. For a crispy new topping, cream together 1/2 cup each soft butter and brown sugar. Mix in 1/2 cup each flour and shredded Canadian Cheddar Cheese and 1/2 cup chopped nuts. Sprinkle overtop an unbaked open-face apple pie and bake at 400°F. 10 minutes. Reduce oven temperature to 375°F. and bake until apples are tender, about 20 minutes longer.

Sauce-Y Tips

Next time you're planning to serve broccoli with a cheese sauce, make it with Canadian-made Swiss. Instead of Cheddar. Season with nutmeg, salt and pepper... delicious!

Caraway and Cheese

Two other vegetables we wouldn't dream of serving without cheese sauce, are cauliflower and cabbage. You'll find a teaspoon or two of caraway seeds added to your best Cheddar sauce makes a good flavor change. And sometimes use the same sauce over baked potatoes when you're serving them along with cold meat.

Cheese 'n' Onions

Before we finish with vegetables, here's a smart way to fix onions. Cook large ones until per-bolled, drain and remove the centers. Chop the centers and combine with melted butter, fine bread crumbs and chopped almonds for a crunchy stuffing. After filling the onion cups, sprinkle generously with grated Cheddar Cheese, then bake about 20 minutes in a 350°F. oven. This makes a good accompaniment for roast pork.

Festival Time

Our recipe ideas feature cheese this month because it's National Cheese Festival time again. A golden opportunity to remind you that there are over 40 different types of cheese now being made in Canada. That's one for every day of the month, with some left over! So why not go adventuring along the cheese counter and try a new one.

Restaurants Feature Cheese

Happily, October is also Restaurant Month... a perfect excuse for dining out, if you need one! You'll find Canadian chefs taking advantage of the flavor of good cheese, as do good cooks everywhere, not only this month, but the year round.

Immobilized Robot Mole Freed Again

Victoria Water Board's mechanical mole resumed chewing its way through the Sooke Lake watershed early Tuesday.

The massive machine, which had been immobilized for more than a week by a rockfall, was freed by tunnellers and began again its boring in shale of the drift which has been driven more than 4,000 feet into the side of the mountain.

HAMPERED Miners have been seriously hampered in the driving of the 26,000-foot tunnel which will, when completed, triple Greater Victoria's water supply.

There have been several breakdowns of the 45-foot-long machine. Tunnellers also have to cope with soft rock.

In some places the shale has been so loose that it was necessary to shore with steel plates and rockbolts.

The most recent cave-in did not damage the mole, but it was necessary to dig it out by hand. The hand-shovelled muck was then transferred to the mole's conveyor belt and moved out to the tunnel portal.

Coats Stolen From Store Seven women's coats worth a total of about $584 and several women's sweaters, mainly size 40, were stolen from Rankin's Ladies' Wear, 725 Yates, overnight Friday.

Entry was gained by climbing onto a small roof at the rear of the shop and opening an insecure window.

The thieves apparently left by the rear door.

Nature Tours The Francis Park nature house will be open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. today and Thanksgiving Day and naturalist Freeman King will show visitors the forest's trails and fungus growths.

Split Vote Needed—Thompson

TORONTO (UPI)—Social Credit Leader Robert Thompson admitted Tuesday he is not entirely sold on the idea of a majority government being formed in the Nov. 8 election.

Prime Minister Pearson has said his government needs a majority to pass vital legislation.

Thompson indicated a minority government might better serve Canada's interests at this time.

TOO SIMILAR

He said John Diefenbaker's last government showed majority government is not always successful.

Thompson said he would favor a majority government in a two-party system but declared the policies of the Conservatives and the Liberals were too similar for this to be effective.

FACE UP

Thompson, for the most part refrained from indulging in "destructive criticism" and instead said his party would face up to the basic issues in their campaign.

PARTY PROGRAM

He presented the 10 planks of his party's platform.

● Positive, responsible representation in a Parliament that will concern itself primarily with national and international affairs.

● Placing the nation's interests above party considerations.

● Preserving the democratic structure by opposing centralization and the drift to socialism.

● A federal government to work with provincial governments in a spirit of co-operation to expand the growth and economy of the provinces.

FINANCIAL PLANS

● Major financial reforms will be advocated, giving the Bank of Canada power to provide public capital.

● Support an adequate health care program on an individual voluntary basis.

● Support greater federal financial contributions to the provinces for universities and vocational training programs.

● Encourage competitive free enterprise, initiative and maximum Canadian investment in the development and processing of resources by reducing or eliminating those forms of taxation which retard or penalize development.

● Vigorous promotion of export markets for agricultural production.

● Establishment of adequate fact-finding and mediation facilities to aid in resolving labor disputes and a retraining program for labor so the general public may enjoy the benefits of automation.

QUEBEC MURDERS

Thompson did not dwell long on the recent gangland slayings in Quebec other than to say quick action is necessary when such discoveries are made to eliminate similar happenings in the future.

The Social Credit leader was moderately optimistic about the future of his party.

MANY CANDIDATES

"There's going to be a greater number of people voting for us than ever before," he said, revealing his party will run in the "neighbourhood of 100 candidates."

High Costs 'Not Union Fault'

Construction workers' unions are wearying of being blamed for rising construction costs in B.C.

C. H. Parker, representative of the International Union of Operating Engineers, said Tuesday accusations by Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi that construction unions are being irresponsible are untrue.

'FUTURE EFFECTS'

Mr. Gagliardi had charged both unions and management "fail to consider future effects on the economy" during negotiations.

Current heavy industry projects will rise $100,000,000; wage settlements this year will cost $1.50 an hour, and highway construction costs are going up 10 to 25 per cent, Mr. Gagliardi said at a recent meeting with contractors in Victoria.

"The truth is," Mr. Parker said, "both labor and contractors have shown extreme concern for the progress of this province through responsible collective bargaining."

He cited as an example the 10-year no-strike contract between construction unions and B.C. Hydro for the Peace and Columbia projects.

FAR-SIGHTED

"B.C. Hydro has a fine agreement for those projects," he said. "That contract indicates the far-sighted and responsible attitude of both labor and the Hydro officials who worked out a reasonable program to complete the projects at the least cost to the taxpayer."

He pinned the blame for rising highway construction costs on Mr. Gagliardi himself.

'BUILDING EMPIRE'

"Ever since he came to office he has been using his own work forces to build his own empire," he said.

The highways department is spending millions of dollars annually buying its own equipment and hiring day labor, he said. The department has gone into business in competition against experienced and more efficient contractors, he said, and the slipshod work it is producing is costing the taxpayer more money.

Rescue Fails, Five Drown

MEADOW LAKE, Sask. (CP)—Police say four of five persons who drowned in Waterhen Lake Thanksgiving weekend were attempting to rescue a man whose canoe capsized.

A boat carrying a man and woman and two children from the Waterhen Indian reserve tipped as the man made an unsuccessful attempt to save another member of the reserve.

If a man invests a definite percentage of his net income (after taxes) in PERMANENT PERSONAL POLICIES of Life Insurance he can free himself and his family of worries about "the future".

'Mobile' Phone Not So Mobile

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI)—Policeman Lloyd Clifton decided to investigate when he noticed two youths loitering near an automobile.

The policeman found a wall-type telephone screwed into the car's dashboard. He picked up the phone, got a dial tone and then spotted a line leading out the car window and up a nearby telephone pole. The car's occupants, charged with wiretapping, were allowed to telephone a lawyer — from jail.

DAR ES SALAAM—President Julius Nyerere granted amnesty to more than 26,000 prisoners to celebrate his inaugural for a new terms. Among those freed are 12 cabinet ministers from Zanzibar who were detained 18 months ago after an anti-Arab revolution.

Professor Drops Theory After 28 Years—No Bang

LONDON — Professor Fred Hoyle, Britain's foremost astronomer, has dropped a scientific bombshell. He said he probably has been wrong for 28 years about the nature of the universe.

Hoyle has not gone over to the "big bang" theory. He now believes the universe probably is in a state of flux, expanding for billions of years, then contracting to what amounts to a dense ball of matter, then expanding again.

By his old theory, the creation of new matter caused the universe to expand and the galaxies — the island universes of stars — to move away from each other.

NEW YORK — Belly dancer Nejla Ates was in hospital and described as in critical condition by authorities here after she went into a coma from an apparent overdose of barbiturates. Miss Ates, 32, has appeared on Broadway and in films and was once engaged to Texas millionaire Sheppard King.

NEW YORK — Barbara Streisand, star of the smash musical Funny Girl, has filed a $2,500,000 suit against the National Broadcasting Co. and Trans World Airlines, charging they used her name in advertisements without permission. "These parasitical commercial activities have already caused me great personal anguish and have injured my status so painstakingly and purposefully developed," Miss Streisand said in her suit.

AUSTIN, Tex. — James C. Cross Jr., 23, a handsome University of Texas English major, was ordered to stand trial on St. Valentine's day on charges he strangled two pretty coeds. It was Cross' second public appearance since he was jailed Aug. 6 after allegedly confessing what he said were the sex-motivated murders of Susan Rigby and Shirley Ann Stark, both 21, from Dallas.

LOS ANGELES — Actress Anna Kashfi was given the choice of paying a $200 fine or serving 20 days in county jail for striking a police officer during a dispute with her former husband, Marlon Brando, over custody of their son.

LONDON — Sir Winston Churchill's London home will be auctioned Oct. 28 unless sold privately before then. A 14-page illustrated catalogue describes the house at 28 Hyde Park Gate, Kensington, as "of mellowed brickwork, low-built and roofed in slate."

BUENOS AIRES — Former dictator Juan Peron is considering plans to return to Argentina, his third wife says. Mrs. Isabel Martinez Peron slipped into Buenos Aires unnoticed from Spain. Peron, 70, has been in exile for 10 years.

MOSCOW — Armed forces minister Raul Castro of Cuba met with the Soviet defence minister, Marshal Rodion Malinovsky. The Cuban leader, a brother of Prime Minister Fidel Castro, arrived in the Soviet Union last week.

NEW YORK — Negro singer Leslie Uggams and Australian businessman Graham Jelp Kelvia Frai are planning to be married in New York. Miss Uggams, 22, was a featured soloist on the television program Sing Along With Mitch.

Phyllis Diller and actor-realtor Wade Demme Tatum were married Oct. 7. Miss Diller, 48, the mother of five children, was divorced from Diller last August.

DUBLIN — President Eamon De Valera, a man who helped lead Ireland to nationhood, faces a heartbreaking decision. Partially blind and no longer robust, De Valera celebrated his 83rd birthday Thursday, Oct. 14. He must decide soon whether to call it a day, whether to retire and let younger men carry on.

VATICAN CITY — Pope Paul VI has firmly barred the door to a married Catholic clergy. He prohibited the Ecumenical Council from talking about changes in the church's celibacy rule. The Pontiff intervened to block a move aimed at opening the controversial issue for debate at St. Peter's basilica.

WASHINGTON — Pres. Lyndon Johnson spent a quiet day without any official visitors at Bethesda Naval Hospital and the White House said "he is continuing his progress as expected." 829 Candidates Chosen

Larger Field Enters Race

By THE CANADIAN PRESS
A slightly larger field than in 1963 was formally entered in the Nov. 8 federal election race when nominations closed Tuesday in 21 scattered constituencies from Newfoundland to the Yukon.

A total of 73 candidates, with at least two in every riding, was named in the remote seats where nominations are held two weeks earlier than in the rest of Canada to facilitate delivery of election supplies. The 1963 total was 69.

HOLIDAY CHANGE

Nominations in the other 242 constituencies — two of which elect two members each — will be held Monday, Oct. 25. The early nominations also usually are held on a Monday but were changed to Tuesday this year because of the Thanksgiving holiday.

There were few surprises in the nominations which saw Liberals and Progressive Conservatives name candidates in all constituencies. The New Democratic Party will contest 16 of the 21 seats, Social Credit 12, with two independents and an independent Liberal completing the list.

NEAR RECORD?

With slightly less than two weeks remaining before all nominations must be made, 829 candidates have been chosen, topped by the Liberals' 257. PCs have filled 232 seats, NDP 198, SC 60, Creditistes — part of Social Credit in 1963 — 52, Communists nine and assorted independents 21.

Despite the four-candidate increase in the early-nominating ridings, it is unlikely the final number of candidates will reach 1963's record total of 1,023. The combined Social Credit-Creditiste total is expected to be well below Social Credit's 224 figure last time.

WOMAN OPPOSES

Opposition Leader Diefenbaker was the only party chief formally nominated Tuesday. He will be opposed in Prince Albert, Sask., where he won by 14,451 votes in 1963, by Lenore Andrews, a Liberal and one of two women nominated Tuesday. Peter Kachur, DP, and John Daschuck, Social Credit.

More Zip, Adventure For Scouts and Cubs

The Boy Scouts' Association is planning to make it simpler to get into Cub Scouts and more adventuresome to stay in Scouts.

Changes in the Scouting program were discussed by leaders at a meeting in Vancouver during the weekend.

SWEEPING CHANGES

J. V. Scrivener, Victoria Scout executive, said proposals made at the meeting would result in "sweeping changes," but would not mean any departure from the Scouts' basic emphasis on "service and the outdoors."

One of the proposals, all of which must be approved by the Scouts' Ottawa headquarters, would simplify admittance requirements in Cub Scouts.

DIVERSE ACTIVITIES

Applicants would learn the requisite skills after becoming a Cub, rather than as a condition of acceptance, he said.

It will also be suggested that the Cub program offer a larger selection of more diverse and interesting activities.

UP TO DATE

Activities of both Cubs and Scouts would be brought more up to date, he said.

Scouting's image will be polished with more "adventurous, stimulating and virile activities calculated to appeal to the 14-to-17-year-old group," Mr. Scrivener said.

VENTURE PLAN

This will be done under the Venture plan, which has been operating for several years but is now official.

WIDE RANGE

The Venture plan will emphasize exploring, mountaineering, canoeing, scuba diving, automobile clubs and the like, he said.

And boys can now enter the Venture plan without having been in Cubs or Scouts.

GUEST SPEAKER

The impending changes will be clarified for leaders and anyone interested by Charles Stafford, assistant program director at Ottawa headquarters.

He will speak at Boy Scout regional headquarters here at 2 p.m., Sunday.

Bulbs Irresistible

By M. V. CHESNUT

Almost every time I come home from downtown these days, my wife takes one look at the parcels in my arms and shrieks "Oh no! Not more bulbs!"

She has good reason to be upset, poor girl, for I just haven't got the moral stamina to walk past a bulb display in the stores without buying something. There is a certain fascination about bulbs, particularly about growing them indoors where you can watch every stage of their development, and this I cannot resist. Already, every suitable container in our house has been planted with bulbs, up to and including the porridge bowls!

Most of the bulbs commonly sold in the fall of the year can be potted up and grown in the house if you don't try to push them ahead too fast, but the easiest of the lot is the Paper White narcissus. The reason why this one poses so few problems is because it doesn't require prolonged storage in cold darkness like most of the other bulbs; moreover, you don't even need any dirt to plant them. They will grow beautifully in a bowl of pebbles and water.

Select a pretty ornamental bowl at least 3 inches deep, and ideally it should have rather steep sides, for with shallow-sloping sides the outer bulbs in the bowl don't have enough depth under them. Buy enough Paper White narcissus bulbs to fill it. Place clean, washed pebbles in the bowl to a depth of about two inches, then rinse your bulbs under the hot tap and sit them on the pebbles, crowding them in close together without actually touching one another, and add a few more pebbles to hold them upright. Add ordinary tap water to the bowl until it is just barely touching the bases of the bulbs.

Some garden books recommend that the bowl of bulbs be kept in a cool fruit pupboard until the roots have formed, but in my experience the Paper Whites will grow just as well at ordinary room temperatures. I like to set the bowl on the dining table where it makes something of a conversation piece as we watch the bulbs through their various stages of growth.

At room temperature, evaporation will be fairly rapid and you'll probably have to add a little water every second day to maintain the level at the base of the bulbs. This is a bit critical, for if the emerging roots are allowed to dry out completely, the bulbs may not bloom. By the same token, too much water in the bowl can drown the bulbs.

The bowl of bulbs can stay on the dining table or anywhere in the room until the top growth is up about an inch out of the bulbs, but at this point the shoots will need more light—a sunny but cool window is ideal. As with most houseplants, the bowl should be rotated a quarter-turn every day to keep the plants from leaning toward the light.

While direct sunlight is needed to bring out the flowers, once blooming commences the flowers will last longer if grown OUT of the sun. It is a good idea, therefore, to move the bowl of sweetly scented flowers back to its old spot in the middle of the room where the whole family can enjoy their fragile beauty and delicate fragrance.

While this pebble culture of the Paper White narcissus is very easy and almost foolproof, I should warn you that it is a go-for-broke proposition. The bulbs are good for only the one season and should be discarded after flowering. Incidentally, the golden narcissus Grand Soleil d'Or can be grown in exactly the same way as its cousin, the Paper White.

The Little World of SHEILAH GRAHAM

Spots on His Mind

LONDON (NANA) — The Tony Curtis baby came down with chicken pox, and the producer of his new film in the south of France is worried, because some of the women in the picture—and men—have never had it. Tony can't remember whether he ever did.

Nunnally Johnson at Les Ambassadeurs for a fast lunch with young producer Kenneth Hyman, before taking off for New York to meet up with wife Doris. Then they go to Bermuda for two months of sun. Nunnally has just finished scripting The Dirty Dozen, for Hyman and MGM. It's a very dramatic story of 12 G.I.s who are reprieved from hanging, and trained for dangerous missions. "We're making it in Hollywood, although the locale is England. But it is cheaper to build the sets in Hollywood than to bring the cast and crew to London," said Kenneth.

The finding of a new Ian Fleming James Bond story, Octopussy, is a new treasure windfall for his widow—and producers Harry Saltzman and Cubby Broccoli, who own the film rights to all the stories except Casino Royale. Rex Harrison, by the way, has joined the cast of the latter, which will have a Bond thread running through it. The other stars are Peter Sellers, Peter O'Toole and Shirley Maclaine. Mrs. Sellers, blonde Britt, is without a nurse and looking after the baby herself, with Peter giving helpful hints on the sidelines. That would make another comedy.

Stanley Baker is back in Africa making final preparations for When the Lion Feeds. He will go to New York for the November premiere of Sands of Kalahari.

Kim Novak, a generous soul, is taking 22-year-old Sharon Tate in her stride. Sharon, blonde and blue eyed, has the second feminine lead in Kim's 13. Producer Marty Ransohoff has been keeping her a secret, more of less, for two and a half years. But now he has given the command: "Publicize Sharon to the limit."

In the past two years Sharon has been taking lessons with Leo Strassberg of the Actor's Studio in New York with Jeff Corey in Hollywood, voice lessons, posture, the whole bit. She has also done some television to gain commercial experience, but wearing a different wig each time, so that now she will burst on the movie horizon, as a new girl.

How did it start? Sharon, the daughter of an American army officer who was stationed in Italy when she was 15 to 19, was a very shy girl. Her father asked, "What can we do to get her over her shyness?" A friend who was an agent took her to Ransohoff, but she was too shy to give an audition. She merely read some dialogue—for a soap commercial. This, nevertheless, is a big part in Ransohoff's filmways Company. He signed her. Easy, isn't it—if you have the right father who knows the right agent.

When Zsa Zsa Gabor was in Europe, she tried hard to sell her 42-foot custom-built cabin cruiser. But in spite of the pound doing so well, money here is tight and Zsa Zsa still owns the boat. Miss Gabor always does everything in grand style, and when she arrived at the Dorchester at 8 a.m. from Hollywood, her suite was not ready. An hour later she was in. "Too small," she snapped. "It's not even big enough for my clothes." They found her a big suite at the Carlton Towers. But when she was ushered inside by an assistant manager, the occupants who were supposed to have left were still in bed! Zsa Zsa and her husband finally found sanctuary at Claridge's. But you see how tough life can be even when you are rich.

Charles Boyer, the pro that he is, is expected back in Paris to complete his roles in the two pictures he was making before the tragic death of his son—How To Steal A Million Dollars, etc., and Paris Is Burning. Incidentally, Willie Wyler who is directing the picture, tells me it is his first in France in 18 years.

ART BUCHWALD Turns the Desks

Elaine Tough, Human

There have been so many stories written lately by secretaries of famous people that I think it's about time someone wrote a book revealing the intimate details of how it feels to be the boss of a well-known secretary.

My book is entitled My Two Years With Elaine Narciso. It begins: "The first time I met Elaine Narciso is when she came into the office and started cleaning off my desk. 'What are you doing that for?' I demanded.

"I refuse to work for anybody who keeps papers all over the place," she said. "If you want me to work for you, you're going to have to be neat."

"I promised I would make a big effort."

"Elaine was a fair but tough taskmaster. She was brought up to handle details as well as delegate authority, and although the pressures on her were great, she rarely showed anger."

"Once I remember, during a crisis, I had forgotten to give her a restaurant receipt for a lunch I had had with somebody, and she flew off the handle and said, 'How am I supposed to keep the books for tax deductions when you don't even save your receipts?'"

"I was putting on my shoes and socks at the time and I said, 'I forgot.'"

"She broke into tears and as I looked at her I realized that, with all her responsibility and burdens, she was still a very human person."

"Elaine loved to have fun and to tell a good story to her friends, but at the same time when there was work to do she expected the most out of me and hours never counted."

"One nice summer day I remember deciding to take the day off. I called in to tell her and she said firmly, 'You can't possibly take the day off. You have a meeting with someone, a lunch date and an article to do for the Ladies Home Journal.'"

"I apologized to her for thinking I could take the time off and the incident was forgotten. Elaine was that kind of secretary. She could never stay mad at me for long."

"Occasionally someone would come into the office whom she didn't want me to see and she was very firm about not letting them get through the door. I would always protest that I welcomed any interruption, but she would say, 'First get finished with your columns and then we'll talk about whom you can see.'"

"Surprisingly, my wife and Elaine got along very well, and what my wife forgot to tell me about in the morning Elaine would heckle me about in the afternoon."

"They were always on the phone to each other, my wife asking Elaine to remind me to bring home a sprocket for the lawn mower and my secretary asking my wife to remind me to bring in the manuscript I promised to return to somebody."

"I still have all of Elaine's memos to me and, while I have been offered huge sums to sell them at auction, I think I'll donate them to a library."

"One says, 'Don't shake hands with your next caller. He thinks it's unclean.' Another says, 'Get rid of her right away. There's someone important in the building.' A third memo says, 'The man you're talking to is not taking a survey. He's really trying to tell you a subscription to Playboy magazine.'"

"I shall always remember my days working for Elaine Narciso, as her boss, as the most exciting and challenging days I ever spent."

"The hours were long, but the rewards were great, and I learned so much from her that even now I wonder how my life would have been if I couldn't have had a secretary. Different, I'm sure, but then I might never have been able to write this book."

Cars City-Killers

SYDNEY HARRIS

What is happening in Chicago should be a warning to residents of other cities. Chicago is sacrificing its parks to its roadways, placing traffic above people.

In the last few years, there has been a slow but definite return to the city from the suburbs. Many families are beginning to realize that a city can offer advantages in living that outweigh suburban benefits.

One of the glories of Chicago is its beautiful lake-front, with its parks and beaches easily accessible. Now the highway engineers have begun to defoliate these areas in order to straighten and widen the boulevards to accommodate more cars in the rush hour.

If this trend continues, if the engineers are allowed to put utility ahead of beauty and leisure, then the decay of the city as a place to live is assured. Families who have contemplated moving back from the suburbs will be discouraged by the loss of trees and parkways, the shrinking of beaches and the intrusion of more heavy traffic only inches away from their narrow strip of sand.

The modern city—through greed, apathy and short-sightedness—has already become dangerously eroded. Its lack of planning, its failure to zone sensibly, its indifference to slum conditions have driven the higher income groups farther and farther into the suburbs.

Millions have been spent on highways to enable these suburban people to enter and leave the city expeditiously; and the more roads, the more traffic; the easier to get into the city, the easier to get out. Those steam shovels on the new highways are digging the cities' own graves.

Cities were made for living in, not just for working in. They should be places of charm and beauty. But if neighborhoods run down, then the schools deteriorate in quality, and when this happens no amount of high-rise buildings or highways can prevent masses of families moving out to the suburbs.

The highway engineers are only interested in "traffic flow." But more important is "people flow." Who wants thousands of cars moving into the city each day, when an equal amount of people move out every evening? And when the city goes, be assured that the suburbs cannot survive for very long, either financially or physically.

DEERFIELD, Mass. (UPI)—A 21-year-old former Miss America contestant slipped off a rocky ledge near the top of Mount Sugarloaf Monday and plunged 200 feet down the rocky mountain-side to her death.

Karol Rae Hommon, Miss Alaska of 1964, was picnicking with three other Smith College students near the top of the 800-foot mountain when she slipped.

The strikingly beautiful brunette clutched a sapling and, for a moment, hung suspended over the sheer face of the mountain.

Classmate Virginia Scheer, 18, Oklahoma City, grabbed one of Miss Hommon's wrists, but she slipped away and dropped to her death without a sound.

"I tried to grab Karol's free hand with my free hand, but she slipped from my grasp," Miss Scheer said. "She went down and I saw her fall and hit a rock ledge some 15 or 20 feet below. Then she bounced off the ledge and went beyond."

When a rescue party reached Miss Hommon on a rocky ledge 200 feet below the summit, she was near death. She was brought off the mountain on a stretcher and died three hours later in Farren Memorial Hospital in nearby Montague.

Just over a year ago, she rode down the boardwalk at Atlantic City on a float—standing on a sled pulled by two sculptured huskies. She places 12th in the Miss America contest.

'Delicate' Sex Yarn

'Impossible' Movie Recently Finished

By BOB THOMAS

NEW YORK (AP)—Mary McCarthy's best-selling novel The Group treated the sex lives of eight Vassar graduates with explicitness. Most readers believed it could never be made into a movie.

But the film has just been completed in New York. The man who accomplished the seemingly impossible is Sidney Buchman, an urbane writer-producer who has toiled in Hollywood studios.

Buchman wrote and/or produced such films as Here Comes Mr. Jordan, The Johnson Story and A Song to Remember, then fell into eclipse during the investigative upheaval of the early '50s. He has lived abroad in recent years and made a return to film-making with The Mark.

The Group, directed by Sidney Lumet, appears to have survived the scrutiny of the film industry's production code. Buchman's script was amended largely in the use of certain words, he reported. Otherwise, the censors went along with him.

PROBLEMS PRESENTED
"We are not out to create a work of pornography," Buchman said. "It seemed to me that the book presented problems of the 1930s that remain vital and perplexing today."

"One of the major issues is the ever-present one that higher education is no help in preparing for the complexities of life." The film will not specify the school from which the girls graduate.

CHARTERED COURSE
Buchman charted his course for The Group early.

"I knew it had to be made in the east. To have filmed the picture in Hollywood would have subjected the story to the usual trap of using starlets and glossy settings. This was essentially an eastern subject and it had to be shot in the areas where it took place."

USED NO STARS
With the approval of United Artists, Buchman made another command decision—no names.

"There were two practical reasons for this. At one time we discussed the idea of using perhaps three female stars. But this would have added $750,000 to the budget."

"Using stars also would have brought an imbalance to the script. The story would necessarily have been focused on the three names, whereas it should be composed of eight more or less equal roles."

ALPHABETICALLY

Skyscraper Acceptable

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mayor Bill Rathie says the provincial government's proposed downtown skyscraper would be acceptable to the city if it included space for additional court facilities.

"This is what we agreed to when we sold the land. This is all we want to see," said the mayor during a council debate over the proposed 55-story building. The mayor and other council members had previously objected strongly to the building.

Pianist Wins Ovation

By WILLIAM THOMAS

Victoria concertgoers accorded pianist Witold Maluczynsky a standing ovation Tuesday night at the McPherson Playhouse.

The packed house rose and cheered the Polish pianist for his magnificent interpretation of four of the great romantic composers for piano: Franck, Liszt, Debussy and Chopin.

The program opened with the Franck Prelude, Choral and Fugue which was both emotionally satisfying and technically brilliant.

FINE TONE

Maluczynsky has a fine tone and clear texture that overcame even the difficulties of the aging instrument he was forced to play.

The offering was marred at one point by a mysterious clomping about somewhere in the gallery which caused the pianist to stop.

A small enough intrusion but irritating.

CAME FOR CHOPIN

The Liszt was a triumph. Maluczynsky showed both sensitive phrasing and fine texture throughout the Sonata in B Major that must have delighted even the most discriminating listener.

There was little doubt that many had come to hear the master play Chopin and he did not disappoint them. After opening the second half of the program with Five Preludes by Claude Debussy he played Chopin's Waltz, Mazurka and the Third Scherzo Opus 39.

The warm reception of this portion of the evening was rewarded with four encores.

SAD STATE

The sad state of the piano at the McPherson Playhouse is so well known as to be tedious in discussion but it is to be hoped Robin Wood can obtain a more satisfactory instrument for his performance of the Brahms piano concerto this weekend. The upper half of this instrument

Premier Smith--and Rhodesia's Lot

'We Are Condemned in Ignorance'

By JOSEPH MACSWEEN
SALISBURY (CP) — Rhodesian independence is necessary to restore confidence and "get our country going," says Premier Ian Douglas Smith, 46.

"We are satisfied that every day we delay this is a disservice to our country. Everybody is waiting for the finalization of this question before they get on with the development of the country, before they invest their money in the country."

BIG STUDY

"This applies not only internally but also externally. We've carried out a very exhaustive and intensive investigation into this and we are convinced beyond any shadow of doubt that this is the thing that will bring back confidence and will enable us to get our country going."

That was how Smith replied to a Canadian reporter's question as to why Rhodesia, self-governing since 1923, now regarded a complete break with Britain as an urgent matter.

FORTHRIGHT

A man who exudes conviction, Smith spoke with a forthright air in his vast office in Parliament House, where elephants adorn a stairway. Plastic surgery following a wartime plane crash—he was a fighter pilot—adds to his resolute and set expression.

Would independence really encourage investment? Smith was asked. Would not people wait to see how independence turned out—whether there might be some trouble or convulsion in the white-supremacist country where there are 4,000,000 Africans and only 220,000 Europeans?

ONLY IMPROVE

"We don't believe so," said the premier. "We believe our record is such that we have managed all alone. I mean look at the trouble we have had from people who have been trying to undermine us and who have not succeeded."

"We believe that there would be less chance of them succeeding after independence, not more, and I think this is shared by all the people who have had experience in Africa. To us the position can only improve."

AFRICAN SEAT

The surge for independence, accompanied by a sharp political swing to the right, grew from the breakup in December, 1963, of the Central African Federation which for 10 years linked Southern Rhodesia, Northern Rhodesia, and Nyassaland, now independent Malawi.

Smith's Rhodesian Front party swept aside all effective white opposition to its rule in an election last May and under the present electoral system, by which in theory a black man could become premier—there are in the 65-seat Parliament 15 so-called African seats, although two are held by non-Africans.

GOD BRITISH

British and Commonwealth insistence that independence be preceded by constitutional guarantees for the African majority brought from Smith his now-famous threat of UDI—unilateral declaration of independence.

Elaborating on the reasons for independence, Smith said he encounters people—and "these are good British people"—who want to move here from such African-ruled places as Kenya, Uganda, Zambia and Malawi:

IMPERATIVE

"They speak to us and they say 'this is a lovely country, we would love to stay, but of course we would never do so until we know you had got your independence.'"

"You see we are losing out every day, people coming to settle and capital investment and so it is imperative that we finalize this."

Smith confirmed an impression that Rhodesia is drawing closer to South Africa, its next-door neighbor, although it does not subscribe to that country's apartheid, or permanent separation of the races. A non-white could never rule South Africa under existing laws.

But he was noncommittal about whether a sort of white bastion is being formed south of the Zambezi River by Rhodesia, South Africa and Portuguese Africa, a bastion against the spread of African nationalism.

NOT FIT

"I suppose your guess is as good as mine," said Smith. "At the moment all we are interested in is maintaining civilization here. And we believe that if we let things go we will lose our civilization. But we do not say it would be a white man's civilization. We acknowledge that the black man has his place in this country."

To a suggestion that Rhodesian policy is to withhold majority rule from the Africans for as long as possible, the premier replied:

"If 'as long as possible' is associated with the retention of a government in civilized hands, the Commonwealth. Asked if he then this is so, we have seen what has happened to countries such as a country such as Canada, to the north of us, where power"

BIG GEORGE By Virgil Partch

"Do you think his name will hold up for eighteen holes?"

"We have made it clear on many occasions... that as far as the older members of the Commonwealth are concerned we believe we have a lot in common with them and we would be reluctant to break our ties with them."

DOMINANT

"But... the Commonwealth is getting into the position where the Afro-Asian bloc is becoming the dominant factor... and we don't think we have so much in common."

"In fact, I specifically mentioned countries like Tanzania and Ghana, countries which openly espouse communism and moreover countries which we know, we have proof, are training our own people as saboteurs to come back here and sabotage the country, to kill people and so on."

"This is the sort of thing I had in mind and of course all my colleagues had in mind when they rejoiced at this statement."

IGNORANCE

Many world leaders have spoken with dismay of Rhodesia's racial policies. Is it likely that Rhodesia is right and the rest of the world wrong? "Maybe some of them condemn us but they condemn us in ignorance because they believe, they often associate, our policy with the policy of South Africa, but this is not so."

FAIR POLICY

"Ours is a perfectly fair policy—fair to everybody—and people are judged on merit. As you know our parliament here, any African can come in if he wants to. Africans can gain access to the voters' roll."

"As far as our civil service is concerned, we have African doctors and teachers come in and start on exactly the same salary as the Europeans—$2,000 a year and this sort of thing—if they have the qualifications. You must not ask us to push people ahead because they have a black skin."

NOT BLIND

"This is what some people in the outside world want us to do. We say they (the Africans) can go ahead but we believe they must have the same ability as the Europeans. So I don't think there is this concern in the world, quite frankly."

Smith said racial differences recently severed Singapore from Malaysia.

animosity in certain parts of Britain and many parts of the United States today than there is in Rhodesia."

After stating his belief that Rhodesia is drawing closer to South Africa, the premier added: "Of course we have always been very close. They have always been very good friends of ours. Whenever we have been in a tight corner or in trouble they have come to our help—talking mainly economic ally now—but you must remember that for 50 years or so, we were fellow members of the Commonwealth."

Some observers say the real reason for Rhodesia's rightward swing, and its tough line on racial matters, is the economic success enjoyed by South Africa despite world criticism. Smith commented:

"Now quit talking about government pensions in every huddle. Let the Imperial Life man call the play for you after the game."

Medal Collection Dates Back Three Centuries

By BENOIT HOULE
OTTAWA (CP) — Dr. Jean-Jacques Lussier, dean of the medical faculty at the University of Ottawa, diagnoses himself as having shown "clear symptoms of being a collector from when I was still young."

At eight he admired his gym instructor's medals on cadet inspection day. As a medical student in Montreal he wandered into a pawn shop and "discovered a mine—I still have the medals I came away with in my collection."

QUARTER CENTURY

The medal-collecting bug continued to bite for 25 years and now 246 medals hang in 15 frames on Dr. Lussier's walls at the university.

Most of them are military. His rarest is an Order of St. Catherine struck for Czar Alexander II by the St. Petersburg goldsmith, Heinrich Wilhelm Kammerer.

BOUGHT IN FRANCE

The Russian prize is not his oldest, however. That is a 1760 Order of St. Louis he bought in France, its country of origin, two centuries after it was minted.

Some of his medals commemorate specific combats of the Poles at Montecassino, Italy, in 1944, or of the French at Suez in 1956.

SAILED UNDER BLIGH

He knows the histories of some of the particular examples which have come into his collection. One, bearing the inscription "Copenhagen 1801," was presented to a sailor named H. S. Ormond on the Clatton, a ship commanded by Captain William Bligh, against whom the mutiny on the Bounty took place.

WAR OF 1812

Another commemorates the Battle of Chateaugay, in which French-Canadians under Salaberry defeated American troops in the War of 1812, and was given to the good soldier C. C. Annance.

From a recent Soviet trip he brought back a Second World War medal.

PRICES VARY

How much are they all worth? "Prices vary so much in Canada and Britain that establishing the value of my collection is practically impossible," says Dr. Lussier. "But for me, seeing my 246 medals lined up under glass makes even the one which have millions of duplicates priceless."

There are medals commemorating campaigns in India, the Crimea and China. Others date from the United States Civil War.

ALL CATALOGUED

They are carefully catalogued and classified, most bearing the names of the persons to whom they were awarded.

When Dr. Lussier goes on a trip, he heads for places he knows are medal-rich rather than for spots likely to attract the general run of tourists. "Obviously I can't locate all the medals ever awarded," he says. "I limit myself to those that have the most historical importance."

Irate Citizens Best Committee

Fifteen irate Oak Bay residents prevailed upon Oak Bay traffic committee Tuesday to lift temporarily parking restrictions imposed on their blocks.

The committee will recommend to council that the yellow line be removed from the blocks and that the situation be "closely watched."

The residents, from the 2500 and 2600 blocks Dunlevy, protested council's action of having the yellow line imposed on one side of the street without having given prior warning.

Residents complained the restriction had permitted the street to become a "freeway"; they also maintained they did not impede traffic by parking their cars in the street.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids... and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved... actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months. This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator). Satisfaction or your money refunded.

In the Big Country He's Figuring to Lasso the Big Prize

John D Strides Into the West

By RON COLLISTER

Colonist Ottawa Bureau

MEDICINE HAT — Out where the west commences, every day is like the song for Tory leader John Diefenbaker. Seldom is heard a discouraging word.

Big John, in a ten-gallon Stetson, is in the big country figuring to lasso the big prize, that election on Nov. 8.

He reached here beaming after a folksy, spectacular whistle-stopping across the prairies, with large crowds mobbing him at nearly every stop.

SOMEONE WILL VOTE

These are the people who don't see John Diefenbaker as a political leader. It's man-to-man.

At Gull Lake, Sask., he was asked to go and shake the hand of a man in a parked car.

This man told him that he was very ill and might not be around when election day comes.

TRUNDLING AROUND

The crowds began to build up as the leader crossed into the Saskatchewan constituency band struck up God Be With Thee by Jack McIntosh in the last Parliament.

At Morse, 400 people turned out to support the local band that greeted him with a waving rendition of The Thunder.

BEATING THE DRUM

Newsmen jumped off the train to give their discharges to the station telegraphist. His office was empty.

Where was he? They asked. "He's playing the drums," said an RCMP officer. Every one was in the welcome act.

TEARS IN EYES

As the train moved out, the hand struck up God Be With You Until We Meet Again. And there were those who swear that there were tears in John Diefenbaker's eyes.

At Herbert, there were 250 people and at Swift Current, 500.

CHANGE OF TUNE

Here, Mr. Diefenbaker was greeted by the non-partisan ladies choir that went to Saskatoon last fall to welcome the prime minister with Hello Lester and now turned out to greet his rival.

No, they couldn't sing, O Johnny, because they didn't know the words.

Raids Cited By India

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—India

Tuesday claimed 251 new Pakistani violations of the Kashmir ceasefire and expressed "great concern" over reports West Germany has decided to supply Pakistan with jet aircraft.

An Indian government spokesman also said India has made its views known to the U.S. government "in very clear and unmistakable terms" on the question of resumption of arms supplies to Pakistan.

RAIDERS KILLED

The spokesman said 11 Pakistani raiders were killed and two captured in a weekend clash with Indian troops in Kashmir.

Earlier, an Indian government statement accused Pakistan of violating the ceasefire 251 times in 20 days, and warned that the violations contained "the seeds of escalation of the conflict."

Party Wins Nigeria Poll

LAGOS, Nigeria (UPI)—The ruling Nigerian National Democratic Party Tuesday won the regional parliamentary election in tense West Nigeria.

With 33 seats still to be declared, the NNPP had won 51 seats in the 94 seat parliament.

KUALA LUMPUR (AP)—The Indonesian Communist party's chief, D. N. Aidit, has escaped a military dragnet and fled by submarine to China, a Hong Kong newspaper said Tuesday.

The report of Aidit's flight came as Radio Jakarta announced capture of the front man of the abortive Sept. 30 movement in Indonesia, Lt. Col. Untung. Untung was a battalion commander in President Sukarno's palace guard.

CLOSE TO BOSS

Aidit, 43, is a brilliant executive who, as the leader of a party claiming 3,000,000 members, had been close to Sukarno for the last six or seven years. He vanished when the army, a counter-balance on the conservative side, crushed Untung's leftist coup.

The anti-Communist Hong Kong newspaper Tin Yat Po quoted reliable sources as saying Aidit escaped via the fishing port of Tuban, on the north Java coast 380 miles east of the Indonesian capital of Jakarta.

SUBMARINE

A Chinese submarine picked him up for the voyage to the China mainland, Tin Yat Po said. The Indonesian party, once pro-Moscow, has swung gradually into Peking's orbit in the last four or five years.

The newspaper said "Chinese submarines have, in the past, secretly unloaded munitions for the Indonesian Communists at Tuban."

AT ODDS

One phase of its story, however, was at odds with Radio Jakarta's announcement of Untung's capture. It said Untung got away on the sub with Aidit.

The army-controlled Jakarta station said troops hunting rebel remnants and their Communist supporters seized the military ringleader at Brebes, in the Tegal sector 180 miles east of Jakarta.

U.S. Troops Hit Hard By Viet Cong

AN KHE, South Viet Nam (Reuters)—American units came under a fierce counter attack by Viet Cong guerrillas Tuesday and suffered an undetermined number of casualties after U.S. officials said two North Vietnamese battalions apparently slipped out of a trap.

The Viet Cong forces, estimated at more than company strength, attacked American troops holding positions at the northern tip of a valley encircled by thousands of U.S. and South Vietnamese government troops for three days.

ATTACK ON HILL

The Viet Cong assaulted American positions on a jungle-clad hill at the head of Sun La Tinh Valley, some 200 miles northeast of Saigon.

BATTALION ESCAPED

Earlier Tuesday, military officials reported two battalions of North Vietnamese regular troops escaped from a trap set by a large force of American and South Vietnamese units.

The fighting appeared over when the latest action flared.

Castro Fetes Crews

MIAMI (UPI)—An American captain who sailed his boat to Cuba to pick up a load of refugees, reported Tuesday that Cuban officials fed his crew Russian steaks, gave them gas and made it apparent that "anybody who wants to leave the island can go."

The report came from Capt. Jack Zata of Miami, skipper of the 44-foot vessel Shark V.

Refugees from the Fidel Castro regime began streaming out of Cuba Tuesday in a rag-tag shuttle of small boats across the stormy Florida Straits.

The Coast Guard cutter Darby arrived here shortly before 8 p.m. carrying 39 refugees picked up from three small boats. A 40-foot patrol boat arrived about two hours later escorting the three small boats with eight more Cubans aboard.

Two more cutters were due during the night, the Coast Guard said, carrying 72 more new exiles.

Russian Spacemen 'Run' Out of Town

BERLIN (AP)—Soviet Cosmonauts Pavel Belyayev and Alexei Leonov, the first man to walk in space, roared out of West Berlin under police escort Tuesday night after demonstrators splattered their big, black limousine with fiery-red paint.

The cosmonauts changed to a smaller car together with their wives, two Soviet security men and a driver and were escorted to Communist East Berlin.

It was a rough ending to an evening that had begun with Leonov leading like a cheerleader a hand-clapping rally staged in West Berlin by the city's Communist sympathizers. Four patrol cars filled with French gendarmes led the cosmonauts out of West Berlin back to East Berlin through crowded streets at speeds up to 60 miles an hour.

The paint was splattered on all side windows and the windshield of the limousine originally carrying the cosmonauts and their wives by youthful demonstrators in front of the Humboldt film theatre in West Berlin, site of the rally.

Commonwealth

Rhodesian 'Mission' Advocated

LONDON (Reuters)—Prime Minister Wilson has proposed a Commonwealth prime ministers' mission to solve the Rhodesian independence crisis.

He disclosed in a nationwide television broadcast Wednesday that he suggested this in a special message to Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith, who returned to Salisbury after the breakdown of independence negotiations in London.

SMITH PRESSED

Wilson said he pressed Smith "if Smith continued to reject independence for the white-ruled central African colony on British terms—to agree to a new Commonwealth initiative, 'to a mission of senior Commonwealth prime ministers representing all the prime ministers and presidents and peoples of the Commonwealth to see if agreement can be reached...'"

"I know I speak for everyone... all parties, all our people when I say to Mr. Smith 'Prime minister, think again,'" Wilson added.

NOT GIVING UP

The prime minister, who recorded his broadcast several hours before it was televised, said his government is not giving up in its attempt to negotiate Rhodesian independence.

"Too much is at stake. 'Yesterday, I got on the phone to the prime minister of Australia, Sir Robert Menzies. Last night I was in direct touch with 19 other heads of Commonwealth governments.'

Wilson said the British high commissioner in Salisbury has handed over a message from him to Smith.

Wilson asked Smith to receive "a mission of senior Commonwealth prime ministers... to see if agreement can be reached, without bloodshed, without economic disruption, in harmony and on a basis designed to secure the future stability, security, prosperity, welfare and independence of a Commonwealth country we all want to help."

WARNED REPEATEDLY

Wilson said the Rhodesian government had been repeatedly warned of what would be involved in seizing independence illegally.

"The whole Commonwealth, 21 nations, without exception, have reinforced these warnings, this urgent advice not to enter on this dangerous road..."

MANY VOICES

He said to their warnings had been added "the voice, urgent, friendly, compelling, of almost every country with whom Rhodesia has had dealings and would wish in the future to have dealings."

He added: "Under our laws, a Rhodesia which took its independence by unilateral action, without the authority of Parliament, would be acting illegally, in a state of rebellion."

Terror Grips Airliner

HONOLULU (AP)—Two 15-year-old U.S. Navy sailors were charged Tuesday with terrorizing 12 airliner passengers and a stewardess with hunting knives.

The FBI said the two boarded an Aloha Airlines plane Monday at Kona, Hawaii, and held the stewardess at knifepoint until they were subdued by air line employees with a shotgun and flare gun.

CONCEALED WEAPON

Lawrence D. Heister of White Earth, Minn., and Richard K. Boyd of Watonga, Okla., were charged with carrying a concealed and dangerous weapon aboard a plane.

They were absent without leave from their ship, the George Eastman, at Pearl Harbor.

Soldiers Man Plants

ROME (UPI)—Italian officials Tuesday night ordered army engineers to take over power plants in order to avoid a power blackout when the nation's 100,000 electrical workers walk off their jobs.

Labor leaders ordered the strike at midnight to back up demands for a wage boost.

A last-minute attempt by Labor Minister Umberto Dele Fave to halt the 48-hour strike ended in failure. Communist and non-Communist labor unions announced after a talk with the minister that the walkout would start as scheduled.

Shipyards Pledged Work Subsidies Stay — Pearson

By FRASER KELLY

Colonist Ottawa Bureau

QUEBEC CITY—Prime Minister Pearson Tuesday promised a national shipbuilding plan "that will take care of all regional interests."

He was touring two shipbuilding yards in Levis, Quebec, but it was obvious he was concerned with the shipbuilding business in Western Canada.

He assured hundreds of workers that the federal government subsidy to the industry "is not going to lapse."

"We have not abandoned the subsidy, we are re-examining it, looking for a new kind... we know how many men depend on shipbuilding and we intend to keep them working."

He stressed that the federal government is interested in shipbuilding in all regions, not just Eastern Canada. In spite of the fact he was surrounded by Quebec workers whose contracts are running out, he said: "There are times these contracts must go to the West."

The Prime Minister said he was "quite aware" that the uncertainty about government policy in shipbuilding is damaging to the industry.

"We will try to correct that as quickly as possible. These decisions will be made very shortly after Nov. 8," he said. He pointed out that the federal subsidy to the industry last year was $40,000,000 — "greater than it's ever been."

Mr. Pearson toured the shipworks, meeting hundreds of workers first hand after he had private talks with Quebec premier Jean Lesage.

Although they emerged from the talks arm in arm, Mr. Lesage firmly declared to a press conference that he would not actively support the Prime Minister in this campaign.

Prosperity 'Factor'

Pearson Learns Lessons in Politics

By FRASER KELLY

Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — When Lester Bowles Pearson first faced the press after announcing the election, he had The Making of the Prime Minister tucked under his arm.

He didn't tell newsmen what, if anything, he had gleaned from that book on the last British election. But his campaigning to date indicates he has learned a great deal about the fine art of politics since he faced the electorate in 1963.

He speaks with much more confidence, directness and vigor. Just being Prime Minister seems to have strengthened him. This time other leaders, particularly Conservative leader Diefenbaker, must carry the campaign to him and he knows it.

In every election campaign there are issues — which the party leaders debate across the nation. There are also "factors" — which usually don't make headlines — but may be even more important to the voters.

Issues develop and change during a campaign. Basic factors remain the same.

The Pearson team is confident that one such factor — unprecedented prosperity — will carry the day for them on November 8.

More people are working. Fewer are unemployed. The vast majority of Canadians are earning more and spending more. History indicates that voters with full stomachs and money in their pockets tend to stay with the party in power.

So the Liberals feel that if they can prevent the issues from running against them, the boom will do the rest.

As the campaign entered its final four weeks only one issue — morality in government — posed a dangerous threat.

Mr. Diefenbaker has used scandal in high places and the recent Quebec murders as proof the voters must "throw the rascals out."

Republican leader Barry Goldwater failed dismally in the last American election on the same issue. But he was not John Diefenbaker and Mr. Pearson certainly does not compare with President Johnson on the hustling. Nor did the Prime Minister enter the campaign with the president's overwhelming popular support.

He has let other ministers, such as Trade Minister Sharp and Justice Minister Cardin carry the attack on Mr. Diefenbaker while he has made all the major policy statements.

He made most of these statements

Three Tots Die in Fire Rescue Attempt Fails

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—Three small children died Tuesday when the desperate efforts of a neighbor to rescue them from a fire-engulfed three-room house failed.

Darryl Rennie, 4, Donald James, 3, and Deborah Joan, 1—the children of Mary Jane McCombe and Gordon Reid—were trapped in the bedroom of the house when fire broke out in the kitchen. Neighbor Sam Rennie suffered burns when he tried to break through to the screaming children.

COURTENAY — An American airman shot a 100-pound female cougar Sunday and plans to have the head mounted as a trophy.

Lt. Charles Bissell downed the cougar with one shot through the chest from a 30-30 Winchester. Accompanied by Hunter Babcock and two hounds, Lt. Bissell spotted the cougar in the Headquarters Road area, not far from here.

Capable Leaders Must Be Elected Strachan Urges

DUNCAN—"People expect more from their government and we must elect capable men in order to get good government," provincial opposition leader Robert Strachan told the opening of the NDP committee room at Duncan Tuesday.

Barnett Battles By Plane

PORT ALBERNI — Tom Barnett, New Democratic Party candidate for Comox-Alberni, has completed one busy schedule by air, and has another well-crammed week ahead. Last week's air trips took him to Friendly Cove, Tahiti, Zeballos and Fair Harbor.

Later Mr. Barnett, accompanied by his wife, visited Lasqueti, Denman and Hornby Islands.

CCF FOUNDER
Tuesday he appeared at a public meeting in Courtenay with Grace McNis, daughter of J. S. Woodsworth, founder of the CCF party.

Wednesday night, Mr. Barnett will be back in Port Alberni to speak at a public meeting in the Legion Hall. With him on the platform will be Robert Strachan, Provincial NDP leader.

Friday, he will join Colin Cameron for a meeting in Campbell River, and Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. Barnett will start off on a two-week tour that will take them to the northern points of the riding which Mr. Barnett represented in the last parliament.

Thieves Lift Handguns

COURTENAY — A .32 calibre automatic and a .35 revolver were stolen from Happy's Sports Shop, when the store was broken into overnight.

One of the weapons, the .32 automatic was later recovered by RCMP when it was found in the back of a parked car. The revolver and a quantity of ammunition are still missing.

Gondoliers Lacks Many Voices

DUNCAN — The Duncan Musical Club is making an urgent appeal for singers needed for the leads and chorus of this year's production of Gilbert and Sullivan's Gondoliers early next year.

A club spokesman stressed the singers need not necessarily be from the Duncan area. Singers from Nanaimo, Lake Cowichan and Victoria have taken part in the past, he said.

Rehearsals are held at 8 p.m. every Friday night at St. Peter's Church at Quamichan. Peter Yelland of Duncan is musical director and Roger Desprez of Nanaimo is drama director.

Floods Force Visitors Back

TOFINO — Several Tofino residents who had been visiting in Port Alberni were forced by floods to turn back and spend the night in Port Alberni. Department of Highways crews worked all night to clear the road which had flooded after heavy rains.

Three Accidents Occur But Injuries Are Slight

DUNCAN — No one was seriously injured in three accidents over the Thanksgiving weekend in the Duncan area.

Saturday, Heather Ann Parkes of Duncan suffered whiplash when her small car was struck in the rear by a vehicle driven by Leo Demurs of Cowichan Bay.

SLOWED DOWN

Miss Parkes had slowed down to make a left turn from the Trans-Canada Highway onto Herd Road, four miles north of Duncan. Damage to the vehicles was estimated at $1,100.

Also Saturday, a car driven by Isabella A. Cummings of Duncan went out of control on Jubilee Street, careened across a sidewalk, through a fence, struck a house, and kept travelling through the back yard and through another fence.

NO INJURIES

"The house was the home of Jack Wong. No one was injured but damage was estimated at $700 to the property and house and $120 to the car.

A four-car rear-end collision Sunday afternoon at the intersection of Drinkwater Road and the Trans-Canada Highway caused little damage to the vehicles and no one was injured.

COLLIDED

Police said Dwight Taylor of Courtenay stopped to make a left turn. Cars driven by James Rennie of Comox and Fred Stephen of Victoria stopped behind the Taylor vehicle.

A fourth car driven by William Zelink of Duncan, collided with the rear of Mr. Stephen's vehicle setting off a chain-reaction which involved all four cars.

Children Saved By Fast Action

PARKSVILLE — Prompt action by a neighbor saved two small children from harm when fire broke out in a house trailer owned by Mrs. William Goodman at Paradise Beach resort about 8 a.m. Tuesday.

Mrs. Lucy Leger occupant of a nearby trailer home was just preparing to go over to Mrs. Goodman's trailer to look after her children, Corine, 5, and Greg, 2, when she saw smoke coming out of the children's bedroom window.

DENSE SMOKE
Mrs. Leger called out to Norman Vance, proprietor of the resort, to call the fire department and ran toward the trailer.

When she got there the smoke was so dense she could not see inside. Fortunately the children were not affected by the smoke as soon as she called them. In doing so the youngsters had to pass close to the oil furnace where the fire apparently originated and Mrs. Leger said she saw flames licking at the walls just after the children got out.

DON MASKS

Parksville Volunteer Fire department arrived quickly and extinguished the flames but smoke was so thick firemen had to don masks to enter the trailer. The upper walls were badly scorched, also furnishings in the children's room and some clothing and toys. Smoke damage was extensive.

The children's mother, a widow, had left home a few minutes before to go to her job as a rural mail carrier at Qualicum Beach.

Peterson to Present Silver Medal Award

NANAIMO—Education Minister Peterson will present the Governor-General's silver medal to Susan MacKenzie, 18, of 1046 Nelson Street at the senior high school here Friday.

Susan won the medal for topping this year's university entrance examinations in British Columbia with a 95.25 per cent mark.

Mr. Peterson will be in Nanaimo again Oct. 20 to open the new logging program at the Nanaimo Vocational School.

Sports Car Pins Mother and Son; Saved by Seatbelts

SHAWNIGAN LAKE — A Victoria woman and her son were trapped for 45 minutes in a late model sports car convertible Tuesday morning while police and a wrecker crew worked to free them.

Driver of the car, 18-year-old Frank Malerby, and his mother, Mrs. Nancy Malerby, 63, both of 780 Lilly Avenue, Victoria, were taken to King's Daughters' Hospital.

HEAD CUTS

Mrs. Malerby suffered chest injuries, and her son was treated for head cuts.

Const. William Saunders of Shawnigan Lake, said the car was travelling south on the Trans-Canada highway, near Cobble Hill, when it went out of control, off the road and rolled over landing on its roof in the ditch, receiving heavy damage.

Const. Saunders said, "If the driver and his mother had not been wearing seat belts, they would have undoubtedly been seriously injured or killed."

MALAHAT CRASH

A few hours later, Tuesday, a three-car accident sent one person to King's Daughters' Hospital with minor head injuries.

Mrs. Dorothy Shaw, of Norcross Road, Duncan, a passenger in a car driven by her husband Ronald H. M. Shaw, was taken to hospital.

Police said the accident occurred on the Malahat on the Trans-Canada highway near the rock-cut lookout. Mr. Shaw stopped his vehicle on the travelled portion of the highway, and got out of the vehicle to fix the windshield wipers which were not operating properly.

His 1965 car was completely demolished when it was struck in the rear by a five-ton transport truck driven by Donald NANAIMO — City council will find out the cost of a survey of its engineering and works department.

This action was taken after Ald. Bus MacDonald pointed out Nanaimo's budget was the second or third largest on the island and over the next year and a half the city will spend $4,000,000.

NOT CRITICAL

"We should have the best possible organization to carry out this project. Are we expecting too much of one man?"

"I'm not electioneering as I may not stand again, nor am I criticizing the present staff," Ald. MacDonald said.

He called for an outside company to make the study, and council unanimously decided first to find out the cost of the survey.

All summer the city has been suffering from cloudy water, and Ald. Jack Parker asked the water committee to investigate means of rectifying the situation.

WATER COLOR

He said he had made an extensive trip across Canada in the summer, but never once had to drink water the color of Nanaimo's.

Dire results were forecast by farmer J. DeClark of Cassidy if council doesn't repair the fence dividing his property from Nanaimo airport's.

He said, "Unless the fence is renewed I won't be responsible for fatal accidents or injuries caused by cattle straying onto the airfield." His request was referred to the properties committee.

BARTON TAX

The finance committee will consider a protest by the Native Sons on the tax assessment on the Barton Museum and Pioneer Rock, and also a request from the Nanaimo Mariner's Club for tax exemption on its proposed $60,000 club house on Grace Street.

Pacific Coastal Airlines wants permission to build increased hangar facilities at Nanaimo airport, and the company informed council that it had offered to buy the airport from the federal government, or obtain a direct lease.

Port Alberni

PORT ALBERNI—City council members suspect there is a lack of communication between Prime Minister Pearson and the Crown Assets Corporation. The three fall fair buildings (the old militia buildings) used jointly by them.

REVIEW

The Crown Assets Corporation put them up for sale. After an appeal by the cities to Mr. Pearson, he promised, in a letter of Sept. 29, to take no action pending a review of the matter.

The City of Alberni has now received a letter from the Crown corporation stating that a top bid of $10,000 for the buildings has been received from an unnamed source and the Twin Cities must match it by Oct. 1.

"Regardless of what happens," Mayor Leslie Hamner told Port Alberni council Tuesday night, "we have to have these buildings. The situation is very confusing. We have a third party and an option to match any bid but we don't know what review of the situation is going on in Ottawa."

NOT FLYING

He said he would accept the offer of Progressive-Conservative candidate William MacAdam, who has offered to fly rival candidates with him on his campaign tours.

Mr. Gagnon said although the national platform of the Social Credit Party had not been announced, "Social Credit stands for good government for all the people of Canada."

LOCAL FIGHT

"I will leave the mud-slinging to others," he said when asked if he would mention Rivard or the recent Dorion inquiry.

He agreed with NDP candidate Tom Barnett that the issue in this election will be fought largely at the local level, with the capabilities of each candidate being of paramount importance.

Mr. Gagnon said that if he is elected he will press for Premier Bennett's request for a Bank of Canada's service in B.C.

SOCIAL SERVICE

"Monies should be made available to municipalities at low interest rates, to finance social services and public works," he said.

Bear Killed with Arrow

There's a first time for everything and Duncan archer Guy Antilla's opportunity to shoot bear with bow and arrow came suddenly Sunday when 250-pound black bear appeared 25 yards in front of him by Nitinat River. Antilla, member of Cowichan Bowmen, shot steel-tipped arrow from 65-pound bow through bear's heart, penetrating 24 inches. Bear was second shot by club member in as many weeks. First was dropped by Elton Sutherland, also of Duncan.—(Klaus Muentner)

Pupil Explosion Shatters Plans

COURTENAY — Carefully prepared plans for a school money bylaw to try to keep abreast of needed classroom space were shattered here Tuesday night when Courtenay District school board was told there had been a 10 per cent increase in school population since schools closed in June.

District superintendent C. E. Ritchie told trustees that the total elementary and high school population at the end of September was 5,288 compared to 4,792 last June, an increase of 496 pupils.

The figures, he said, excluded the RCAF Station Comox school but included all schools in the district which stretches to Black Creek in the north, Deep Bay in the south, Cumberland to the west and Comox to the east.

The school board has released no figures on their originally proposed referendum which it hoped would take care of all classroom needs including the provision of senior high school technical vocational shops and equipment.

On the basis of the new figures school board chairman Brian Walker said a minimum of 12 extra classrooms, possibly 14, would be needed.

Sacred Promises More For Coast

COURTENAY—A more equitable share of maritime expenditures for British Columbia is the goal of Jean M. Gagnon, Social Credit candidate for Comox-Alberni in the Nov. 8 federal election.

"We (B.C.) usually get one tenth of the amount spent on the east coast," Mr. Gagnon said here in an interview.

"If elected I will see that this province enjoys a better share of the good things we have in Canada."

Mr. Gagnon filed his papers Saturday during a brief stop in Courtenay, while on his way to Campbell River.

He said he would accept the offer of Progressive-Conservative candidate William MacAdam, who has offered to fly rival candidates with him on his campaign tours.

Mr. Gagnon said although the national platform of the Social Credit Party had not been announced, "Social Credit stands for good government for all the people of Canada."

"Monies should be made available to municipalities at low interest rates, to finance social services and public works," he said.

Expert Cites Apathy For High Crime Rate

NANAIMO — Apathy on the part of the country, community, and the family is mainly to blame for the increasing crime rate in Canada, probation officer Bev Savory told the Kiwanis Club here Tuesday.

He said he was doubtful if the increasing crime rate paralleled the increase in population.

TREMENDOUS NEED

Recreation and education are the weapons to fight the problem, Mr. Savory said.

"We'll never keep the children off the streets if something tangible is not done soon. There's a tremendous need for a full recreation program tied in with education."

He said he favored the current police practice of seizing an automobile where it is used in conjunction with a liquor infraction, but he said he was glad the paddle had been done away with, because "very often these people were in need of psychiatric help."

Vancouver Boys' Club had started in a disused firehall, Mr. Savory said, and Kiwanian Frank Ney pointed out Nanaimo's will soon be empty when the new hall is built.

FAMILY CAR

As an example of cases he has to deal with, Mr. Savory told the Kiwanians of a 14-year-old Vancouver-Island girl who became a prostitute and used the family car as a roving bedroom with the full knowledge of her parents.

The probation officer had some expensive statistics for his listeners. Last year, he said, 15,554 people were sentenced to detention in institutions. Out of these 8,195 were liquor charges, 807 for theft under $50, 759 were impaired drivers, and 742 were the result of convictions for break-ins.

All this crime cost the B.C. taxpayer $6,500,000 with no allowance included for social assistance paid to the families involved.

It costs $3,000 per year to keep one man in prison, plus another possible $10,000 for his family, Mr. Savory said. Yet, he added, if the same man is sentenced to a period of probation the cost is reduced to $185 per year.

DEERFIELD, Mass. (UPI)—A 21-year-old former Miss America contestant slipped off a rocky ledge near the top of Mount Sugarloaf Monday and plunged 200 feet down the rocky mountain-side to her death.

Karol Rae Hommon, Miss Alaska of 1964, was picnicking with three other Smith College students near the top of the 800-foot mountain when she slipped.

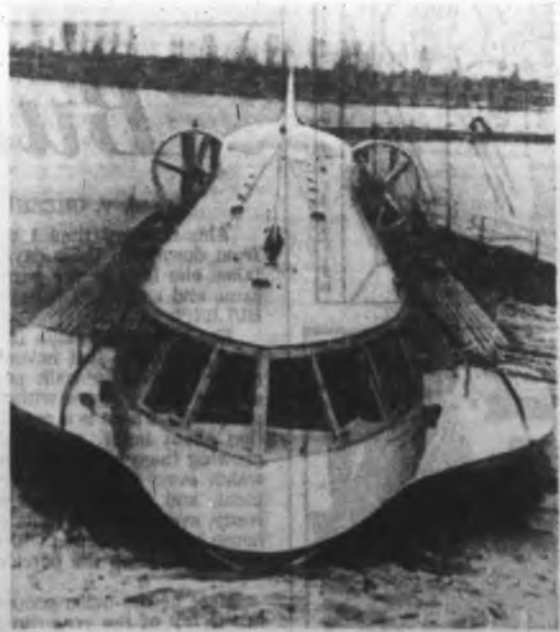

The strikingly beautiful brunette clutched a sapling and, for a moment, hung suspended over the sheer face of the mountain.

Classmate Virginia Scheer, 18, Oklahoma City, grabbed one of Miss Hommon's wrists, but she slipped away and dropped to her death without a sound.

"I tried to grab Karol's free hand with my free hand, but she slipped from my grasp," Miss Scheer said. "She went down and I saw her fall and hit a rock ledge some 15 or 20 feet below. Then she bounced off the ledge and went below."

When a rescue party reached Miss Hommon on a rocky ledge 200 feet below the summit, she was near death. She was brought off the mountain on a stretcher and died three hours later in Farnen Memorial Hospital in nearby Montague.

Just over a year ago, she rode down the boardwalk at Atlantic City on a float—standing on a sled pulled by two sculptured huskies. She places 12th in the Miss America contest.

'Delicate' Sex Yarn

'Impossible' Movie Recently Finished

By BOB THOMAS

NEW YORK (AP)—Mary McCarthy's best-selling novel The Group treated the sex lives of eight Vassar graduates with explicitness. Most readers believed it could never be made into a movie.

But the film has just been completed in New York. The man who accomplished the seemingly impossible is Sidney Buchman, an urbane writer-producer who has tolled in Hollywood studios.

Buchman wrote and/or produced such films as Here Comes Mr. Jordan, The Jolson Story and A Song to Remember, then fell into eclipse during the investigative upheaval of the early 50s. He has lived abroad in recent years and made a return to film-making with The Mark.

The Group, directed by Sidney Lumet, appears to have survived the scrutiny of the film industry's production code. Buchman's script was amended largely in the use of certain words, he reported. Otherwise, the censors went along with him.

PROBLEMS PRESENTED
"We are not out to create a work of pornography," Buchman said. "It seemed to me that the book presented problems of the 1930s that remain vital and perplexing today."

"One of the major issues is the ever-present one that higher education is no help in preparing for the complexities of life."

The film will not specify the school from which the girls graduate.

CHARTERED COURSE
Buchman charted his course for The Group early.

"I knew it had to be made in the east. To have filmed the picture in Hollywood would have subjected the story to the usual trap of using stunts and gaudy settings. This was essentially an eastern subject and it had to be shot in the areas where it took place."

USED NO STARS
With the approval of United Artists, Buchman made another command decision—no names.

"There were two practical reasons for this. At one time we discussed the idea of using perhaps three female stars. But this would have added $750,000 to the budget."

"Using stars also would have brought an imbalance to the script. The story would necessarily have been focused on the three names, whereas it should be composed of eight more or less equal roles."

ALPHABETICALLY

Buchman and Lumet interviewed 400 girls and their final choices will be billed alphabetically—Candy Bergen, Joan Hackett, Elizabeth Hartman, Shirley Knight, Joanna Pettet, Mary-Robin Redd, Jessica Walter and Kathleen Widener.

Miss Bergen is the daughter of ventriloquist Edgar Bergen.

Skyscraper Acceptable

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mayor Ed Rathie says the provincial government's proposed downtown skyscraper would be acceptable to the city if it included space for additional court facilities.

"This is what we agreed to when we sold the land. This is all we want to see," said the mayor during a council debate over the proposed 55-story building. The mayor and other council members had previously objected strongly to the building.

Little Star 'Got Old'

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP)—The great brown eyes that used to drench the silver screen in sweet sadness were glinting with irony. Sylvia Sidney was talking about herself as if she were somebody else.

"I'll tell you what happened," the familiar voice said, clinically cool. "I got old. And why am I making this tour? Because they asked me, that's why."

NOT DOWNHEAT
Miss Sidney treated herself to a guffaw that echoed around the hotel dining room. At 55, the little star, who was once one of the busiest of all, calls her outlook "negative optimistic."

"I'm not downbeat at all," she explains, "but I am a great take-downer."

THREE ROLES
There's the matter, for example, of the three roles she undertakes for the National Repertory Theatre Company on a 10-city expedition that ends next April.

The assortment is stylistically wide—a waggish comedy of Eva Gallienne in The Madwoman of Chailot, Mrs. Malaprop in Sheridan's restoration comedy The Rivals, and the chief of chorus in The Trojan Women of Euripides. Essentially, Miss Sidney insists, they are alike.

"I believe in reducing a part to basic emotions—and they haven't changed since drama began, and they won't."

Mention of method acting prompts the lady to hold her nose, do a vigorous thumbs-down and challenge: "Try to quote that."

Having started as a theatre guild apprentice at 15, Miss Sidney points out: "I was up to my knees in acting before anyone thought of making the method a cult. It can be a good crutch for acting, but as a crutch for living, it's bad."

Early stage successes were followed by innumerable movie roles, conspicuous among which were Bad Girl, An American Tragedy and Street Scene. Too much, too fast, she reflects, but refuses to linger.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

Exclusive healing substance proven to shrink hemorrhoids...and repair damaged tissue.

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved... actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months. This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Just ask your druggist for Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment (with a special applicator). Satisfaction or your money refunded.

In the Big Country He's Figuring to Lasso the Big Prize

John D Strides Through the West

By RON COLLISTER
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

MEDICINE HAT — Out where the west commences, every day is like the gong for Tory leader John Diefenbaker. Seldom is heard a discouraging word.

Big John, in a ten-gallon Stetson, is in the big country figuring to lasso the big prize, that election on Nov. 8.

He reached here beaming after a folksy, spectacular whistle-stopping across the prairies, with large crowds mobbing him at nearly every stop.

SOMEONE WILL VOTE

These are the people who don't see John Diefenbaker as a political leader. It's man-to-man.

At Gull Lake, Sask., he was asked to go and shake the hand of a man in a parked car.

This man told him that he was very ill and might not be around when election day comes.

"But there are another fourteen votes in my family and they're all going to be cast for you."

The FBI said the two boarded an Aloha Airlines plane Monday at Kaunakakai, Molokai, Hawaii, and held the stewardess at knifepoint until they were subdued by air line employees with a shotgun and flare gun.

CONCEALED WEAPON

Lawrence D. Heiler of White Earth, Minn., and Richard K. Boyd of Watonga, Okla., were charged with carrying a concealed and dangerous weapon aboard a plane.

They were absent without leave from their ship, the George Eastman, at Pearl Harbor.

Shipyards Pledged Work Subsidies Stay — Pearson

By FRASER KELLY
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

QUEBEC CITY — Prime Minister Pearson Tuesday promised a national shipbuilding plan "that will take care of all regional interests."

He was touring two shipbuilding yards in Levis, Quebec, but it was obvious he was concerned with the shipbuilding business in Western Canada.

He assured hundreds of workers that the federal government subsidy to the industry "is not going to lapse."

"We have not abandoned the subsidy, we are re-examining it, looking for a new kind . . . we know how many men depend on shipbuilding and we intend to keep them working."

He stressed that the federal government is interested in shipbuilding in all regions, not just Eastern Canada. In spite of the fact he was surrounded by Quebec workers whose contracts are running out, he said: "There are times these contracts must go to the West."

The Prime Minister said he was "quite aware" that the uncertainty about government policy in shipbuilding is damaging to the industry.

"We will try to correct that as quickly as possible. These decisions will be made very shortly after Nov. 8," he said. He pointed out that the federal subsidy to the industry last year was $40,000,000 — "greater than it's ever been."

Mr. Pearson toured the shipyard's meeting hundreds of workers first hand after he had private talks with Quebec premier Jean Lesage.

Although they emerged from the talks arm in arm, Mr. Lesage firmly declared to a press conference that he would not actively support the Prime Minister in this campaign.

Prosperity 'Factor'

Pearson Learns Lessons in Politics

By FRASER KELLY
Colonist Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA — When Lester Bowles Pearson first faced the press after announcing the election, he had The Making of the Prime Minister tucked under his arm.

He didn't tell newsmen what, if anything, he had gleaned from that book on the last British election. But his campaigning to date indicates he has learned a great deal about the fine art of politics since he faced the electorate in 1963.

He speaks with much more confidence, directness and vigor. Just being Prime Minister seems to have strengthened him. This time other leaders, particularly Conservative leader Diefenbaker, must carry the campaign to him and he knows it.

In every election campaign there are issues — which the party leaders debate across the nation. There are also "factors" — which usually don't make headlines — but may be even more important to the voters.

Issues develop and change during a campaign. Basic factors remain the same.

The Pearson team is confident that one such factor — unprecedented prosperity — will carry the day for them on November 8.

More people are working, fewer are unemployed. The vast majority of Canadians are earning more and spending more. History indicates that voters with full stomachs and money in their pockets tend to stay with the party in power.

So the Liberals feel that if they can prevent the issues from running against them, the boom will do the rest.

As the campaign entered its final four weeks only one issue — morality in government — posed a dangerous threat.

Mr. Diefenbaker has used scandal in high places and the recent Quebec murders as proof the voters must "throw the rascals out."

Republican leader Barry Goldwater failed miserably in the last American election on the same issue. But he was not John Diefenbaker and Mr. Pearson certainly does not compare with President Johnson on the hustling. Nor did the Prime Minister enter the campaign with the president's overwhelming popular support.

He has let other ministers, such as Trade Minister Sharp and Justice Minister Cardin carry the attack on Mr. Diefenbaker while he has made all the major policy statements.

He made most of these statements.

U.S. Troops Hit Hard By Viet Cong

AN KHE, South Viet Nam (Reuters) — American units came under a fierce counter attack by Viet Cong guerrillas Tuesday and suffered an undetermined number of casualties after U.S. officials said two North Vietnamese battalions apparently slipped out of a trap.

The Viet Cong forces, estimated at more than company strength, attacked American troops holding positions at the northern tip of a valley encircled by thousands of U.S. and South Vietnamese government troops for three days.

A U.S. military spokesman said a battalion of the U.S. 1st Air Cavalry Division was "heavily engaged" by the Viet Cong for five hours.

He said two air strikes and an artillery barrage were called in to relieve the U.S. troops, who suffered an undetermined number of casualties.

ATTACK ON HILL

The Viet Cong assaulted American positions on a jungle-clad hill at the head of Soi La Tinh Valley, some 280 miles northeast of Saigon.

Castro Fetes Crews

MIAMI (UPI) — An American captain who sailed his boat to Cuba to pick up a load of refugees, reported Tuesday that Cuban officials fed his crew Russian steaks, gave them gas and made it apparent that "anybody who wants to leave the island can go."

The report came from Capt. Jack Zatz of Miami, skipper of the 44-foot vessel Shark V.

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI) — Refugees from the Fidel Castro regime began streaming out of Cuba Tuesday in a rag-tag shuffle of small boats across the stormy Florida Straits.

The Coast Guard cutter Darby arrived here shortly before 8 p.m. carrying 38 refugees picked up from three small boats. A 40-foot patrol boat arrived about two hours later escorting the three small boats with eight more Cubans aboard.

Two more cutters were due during the night, the Coast Guard said, carrying 72 more new exiles.

Russian Spacemen 'Run' Out of Town

BERLIN (AP) — Soviet Cosmonauts Pavel Belyayev and Alexei Leonov, the first man to walk in space, roared out of West Berlin under police escort Tuesday night after demonstrators splattered their big, black limousine with fiery-red paint.

The cosmonauts changed to a smaller car together with their wives, two Soviet security men and a driver and were escorted to Communist East Berlin.

It was a rough ending to an evening that had begun with Leonov leading like a cheerleader a hand-clapping rally staged in West Berlin by the city's Communist sympathizers.

Four patrol cars filled with French gendarmes led the cosmonauts out of West Berlin back to East Berlin through crowded streets at speeds up to 80 miles an hour.

The paint was splattered on all side windows and the windshield of the limousine originally carrying the cosmonauts and their wives by youthful demonstrators in front of the Humboldt film theatre in West Berlin, site of the rally.

WILSON URGES MISSION

LONDON (Reuters) — Prime Minister Wilson has proposed a Commonwealth prime ministers' mission to solve the Rhodesian independence crisis.

He disclosed in a nationwide television broadcast Wednesday that he suggested this in a special message to Rhodesian Premier Ian Smith, who returned to Salisbury after the breakdown of independence negotiations in London.

SMITH PRESSED

Wilson said he pressed Smith — if Smith continued to reject independence for the white-ruled central African colony on British terms — to agree to a new Commonwealth initiative, "to a mission of senior Commonwealth prime ministers representing all the prime ministers and presidents and peoples of the Commonwealth to see if agreement can be reached."

"I know I speak for everyone . . . all parties, all our people when I say to Mr. Smith 'Prime Minister, think again,'" Wilson added.

NOT GIVING UP

The prime minister, who recorded his broadcast several hours before it was televised, said his government is not giving up in its attempt to negotiate Rhodesian independence.

"Too much is at stake. Yesterday, I got on the phone to the prime minister of Australia, Sir Robert Menzies. Last night I was in direct touch with 19 other heads of Commonwealth governments."

MESSAGE GIVEN

Wilson said the British high commissioner in Salisbury has handed over a message from him to Smith.

Wilson asked Smith to receive "a mission of senior Commonwealth prime ministers . . . to see if agreement can be reached, without economic disruption, in harmony and on a basis designed to secure the future stability, security, prosperity, welfare and independence of a Commonwealth country we all want to help."

WARNED REPEATEDLY

Wilson said the Rhodesian government had been repeatedly warned of what would be involved in seizing independence illegally.

"The whole Commonwealth, 21 nations, without exception, have reinforced these warnings, this urgent advice not to enter on this dangerous road."

MANY VOICES

He said to their warnings had been added "the voice, urgent, friendly, compelling, of almost every country with whom Rhodesia has had dealings and would wish in the future to have dealings."

He added: "Under our laws, a Rhodesia which took its independence by unilateral action, without the authority of Parliament, would be acting illegally, in a state of rebellion."

Wilson Sees Queen

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Wilson left his London office today to fly to Balmoral, Scotland, to see Queen Elizabeth. Some sources speculated he may be ready to call a snap general election.

However, other sources here said the unusual move underscored the gravity of the Rhodesia crisis and threat to break away from Britain without giving the black majority the dominant voice in government.

Wilson warned last night that a unilateral declaration of independence could engulf Southern Africa in a violent race war.

A terse announcement from No. 10 Downing Street early this morning said Wilson would return from his trip to Scotland later today. Informed political sources said the Prime Minister wanted to tell the Queen what action his government would take if Rhodesia seceded.

The Queen is vacationing at Balmoral.

Soldiers Man Plants

ROME (UPI) — Italian officials Tuesday night ordered army engineers to take over power plants in order to avoid a power blackout when the nation's 100,000 electrical workers walk off their jobs.

Labor leaders ordered the strike at midnight to back up demands for a wage boost.

A last-minute attempt by Labor Minister Umberto Dele Fave to halt the 48-hour strike ended in failure. Communist and non-Communist labor unions announced after a talk with the minister that the walkout would start as scheduled.

Three Tots Die in Fire Rescue Attempt Fails

CHURCHILL, Man. (CP) — Three small children died Tuesday when the desperate efforts of a neighbor to rescue them from a fire-engulfed three-room house failed.

Darrell Rennie, 4, Donald James, 3, and Deborah Joan, 1 — the children of Mary Jane McConse and Gordon Reid — were trapped in the bedroom of the house when fire broke out in the kitchen. Neighbor Sam Rennie suffered burns when he tried to break through to the screaming children.
